'Nice to See You' JFK Tells Nikita

Friendly Air As Talks Open

VIENNA (Reuters)—President Kennedy and Nikita Khrushchev today discussed at length the problems of Laos and the International Control Commission in Laos. It was officially announced tonight.

(CP From AP-Reuters)

VIENNA—President Kennedy met for more than six hours with Soviet Premier Khrushchev here today in what conference officials described as a "good" atmosphere.

The talks lasted nearly an hour longer than originally scheduled and everything indicated the two men had got along well in their history-making meeting.

One authoritative conference source said the atmosphere was good and another stressed the cordiality between Kennedy and Khrushchev.

The two leaders met early in the day, then had lunch together and another meeting after the meal. In this last meeting of the day they were alone except for their interpreters.

The liveliness of their discussion was evident from a glimpse of the two men when they stepped out into the garden of the U.S. Embassy residence, the site of their talks, for a brief breath of the cool Austrian air.

The two were talking with marked animation. Both were gesturing vigorously with their hands, and both the 66-year-old Soviet veteran of diplomatic wars and the 44-year-old newcomer to the battleground of cold war diplomacy seemed in deadly earnest.

Kennedy flew here from a visit to Paris, where three days of talks with President Charles de Gaulle appeared to have strengthened his hand for these critical discussions with the Kremlin leader.

The first meeting of the U.S. and Soviet leaders was at the home of U.S. Ambassador H. Freeman Matthews in the Vienna outskirts.

As Khrushchev arrived Kennedy bounded down the steps of the residence, thrust out his hand and said: "It's nice to see you."

The president introduced U.S. ambassador to Moscow Llewellyn Thompson to the Russian leader as "our ambassador."

Khrushchev smiled and replied: "He is our ambassador too."

Khrushchev appeared a little subdued and Kennedy tugged nervously at his suit. But the Russian leader's customary gusto returned when Kennedy asked if it was all right if they shook hands again for photographers.

Khrushchev thrust out his hand with a big flourish to the president.

Their initial discussions lasted 75 minutes, delaying the start of their lunch together for a half hour.

They continued their talks over lunch and then retired to the music room again for more discussions.

Top advisers, including State Secretary Dean Rusk and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, waited in adjoining rooms for any summons from their leaders.

Kennedy had flown into Vienna two hours earlier from Paris. He told Austrian President Adolf Schaerf he had come to Vienna for "this most important occasion in an effort to improve the prospects for more general understandings between people."

The president received a more warm-hearted welcome from crowds lining his route into the city from the airport than the one accorded Khrushchev when he arrived here by train Friday night.

Crowds stood four and five deep at some points along the route despite steady rain. They

IT'S GREAT IN GREAT OUTDOORS

If fishermen, golfers, tennis players, and gardeners had created the weekend weather they couldn't have improved on the menu provided by weatherman William Mackie.

"This evening and Sunday will be mostly sunny," he said. "Temperatures are a little cooler, but we'll have a maximum of 75 degrees Sunday, and westerly winds up to 20 miles Sunday afternoon."

Crack U.S. Jet Bomber Crashes

PARIS (Reuters)—The supersonic U.S. jet B-58 bomber that flashed across the Atlantic in record time last week crashed near here today.

The four-engine plane, taking part in an air show, had made two spectacular passes above spectators before it went down in a nearby field.

All three men aboard were killed. The French news agency said they were not the same men who piloted the craft from the United States on its record-smashing trip.

The bomber, called the Hustler, made its record-breaking flight across the Atlantic May 26 in three hours, 19 minutes, 41 seconds.

The delta-winged B-58 is powered by four jet engines and can fly at more than twice the speed of sound — 1,300 miles an hour — at altitudes up to and above 60,000 feet.

Grad-Night Crash Kills Two Youths

AGASSIZ (CP)—A car carrying six high school students to a graduation dance crashed into a power pole Friday night killing two boys and critically injuring a third.

Dead are Alan McCallum, 16, Harrison Mills, and Dick Mellin, 15. Agassiz. Unconscious and in serious condition is Garrett Whorley, 18, of Agassiz.

SHOT DEAD

Robert W. Besch Sr., 42, assistant manager of the U.S. wide A and P food store chain was shot to death by his 14-year-old son, police said today. The boy, a crack shot, had been worried about his marks at school. (AP Wirephoto.)

WIRE BRIEFS

Act 'No Weapon'

(See page 14.)
OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Immigration Act is "not to be used as a weapon by either side in industrial disputes." Citizenship Minister Fairclough said today. Her brief statement was comment on the Toronto building strike.

20th Victim Found

PARIS (AP)—The body of a 20th victim was recovered today from ruins created by a massive earth slide in the Paris suburb of Clamart Thursday.

Jackie, Mrs. K Lunch

VIENNA (Reuters)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and Mrs. Nina Khrushchev will meet at a private luncheon party Sunday on the second day of their husbands' summit talks, it was disclosed today.

Heads Angola Force

LISBON (AP)—Premier Antonio Salazar of Portugal appointed Air Force Gen. Venancio Augusto Deslandes today to take charge of all civil and military forces in Angola to crush the rebellion in the West African colony.

Cable Car Kills 4

MONTERREY, Mex. (AP)—Four persons died Friday night when a car of a newly-built mountain cable system struck a tower and threw the victims into a 60-foot canyon.

Canadians Seem Safe

OTTAWA (CP)—There is no indication that the lives of Canadians in the Dominican Republic are in danger, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons today.

NO BUDGET NEXT WEEK FLEMING TELLS HOUSE

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming said today his 1961-62 budget will not be brought down next week.

He would go no further in reply to prodding in the Commons by Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal-Laurier).

U.S. Navy Alert On East Coast

IWA FACTION WILL OPPOSE NEW CONTRACT

VANCOUVER (CP)—A faction within the International Woodworkers of America will oppose a no-wage-increase agreement reached between the union's negotiating committee and coast lumber operators.

Syd Thompson, president of the 6,000-member local 1-217 here, said his executive is unanimous in denouncing the settlement reached Thursday with Forest Industrial Relations, spokesmen for the operators.

The agreement calls for the same wages for most of the union's 27,000 coast members in a one-year contract that gives them a health and welfare plan, an extra paid holiday and other fringe benefits.

Thompson said the settlement is "absolutely unsatisfactory at a time when the lumber business is booming."

Washout on CPR

KAMLOOPS (CP)—A washout at Keefers, 12 miles east of North Bend, has forced the CPR to use CNR lines between Hope and Basque.

ONE MISSING

Three Jump To Flee Train

KAMLOOPS (CP)—One man is missing and two others were rescued from the swirling Thompson River early today when all three jumped from a bridge to escape an approaching train.

Police said the incident happened shortly before 6 a.m., as the trio was using the railway trestle bridge as a short cut.

The CNR train, approaching from a junction four miles north of the city, apparently panicked the men and they jumped into the Thompson, now at a high spring level.

Two of the men were helped to shore by police, the third vanished. Names were not released.

Korea Junta Chief Due to Step Down?

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—A reliable civilian source said today that Lt. Gen. Do Yung Chang is to be replaced at the top of South Korea's new military junta.

The report said Chang would keep the premiership but would be succeeded as chairman of the powerful 22-man junta by the present vice-chairman—Maj. Gen. Chung Hui Park.

Park, 45, has generally been considered the chief engineer of the May 16 coup that brought down John Chang's elected government.

The report was denied by an information ministry aide, who called it a rumor " detrimental to the revolutionary government."

HOW DID IT FEEL? 'NOTHING AT ALL'

Woman Tells of 'Dying' Five Times

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—How does it feel to die?

"There's nothing at all but a completely black feeling of void. I had a feeling of falling through vacant space. But I was not aware of the fact that I was dying."

The speaker was 21-year-old Mrs. Anne-Maj Olausson, now a healthy housewife and mother of 'Gaelivare, one of Sweden's northernmost cities, 50 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

But on April 13, Anne-Maj Olausson apparently died five times. She stopped breathing. Her heart stopped beating. She seemed dead.

But each time she was brought back to life by a 34-year-old Swedish doctor, Bengt Koerlof, using external heart massage.

Mrs. Olausson's five deaths came 10 days after she gave birth to her first child.

As she was walking down the Gaellivare hospital stairs to go home, she suddenly collapsed, seemingly dead.

During the examination by Dr. Koerlof, Mrs. Olausson apparently stopped living four more times. Each time the doctor brought her back to life.

Mrs. Olausson said today she remembers very little from that nearly-fatal day.

"I felt some pains in my chest," she said, "but did not realize that these were the moments the doctor was bringing me back to life."

SCURRAH HEADS CANADA MAYORS

An indication that Mayor Percy B. Scurrah will be candidate again in December for the chief magistracy's post was contained today in a dispatch from Halifax.

Mayor Scurrah has been elected to, and accepted, the post of president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, the top honor for a municipal leader in Canada.

Mr. Scurrah has been mayor of Victoria since January, 1956, and there has been some talk at city hall he would retire when his present two-year term ends in December.

However, city hall observers today suggested if he had intended to retire he would not have accepted the federation post. They also pointed out that next year is the city's centenary which would mark a fitting climax to his career.

His election came at the final session of the federation's four-day conference in Halifax.

Mayor Scurrah succeeds Mayor S. L. Buckwold of Saskatoon who was named honorary president of the federation.

COLORADO CITY LASHED BY 6 INCHES OF HAIL

LAMAR, Colo. (AP) — Dazed by hail and flooded by rain, this southeast Colorado city of 7,300 counted up hundreds of thousands of dollars damage today after a storm described as the worst in 50 years.

Six inches of hail and more than 2½ inches of rain fell late Friday in a period of less than two hours.

The storm destroyed hundreds of acres of wheat and sugar beets and left water 18 inches deep swirling down the main streets.

Hailstones up to four inches in diameter battered the city for 45 minutes.

DOUBLE K TALKS

surged forward cheering as he drove by with the Austrian president and there were none of the boos which marked Khrushchev's arrival.

Another crowd waited at the Austrian president's office and cheered as Kennedy and his wife arrived for a formal visit.

A big crowd—many of them from Vienna's American colony—set up a loud cheer when Kennedy and Jacqueline arrived.

The leaders of the world's two greatest powers will hold talks again Sunday with no set agenda.

Each brings with him to this confrontation the command of nuclear weapons powerful enough to blot out the country of the other and much else of the world besides.

Each heads a rival alliance system—massive, formidable and determined to maintain its own way of life.

Diplomats predicted there would be some accomplishments. Whatever else develops, the two men should understand each other's motives better. This, in turn, should enable them more easily to avoid the political miscalculations that could lead to war.

Kennedy had his strategy fully mapped out for the five hours of talks with the Russian leader.

BOOST OF OVER 50 PER CENT

Cuba to Spend $21 Million Here

HAVANA (CP)—The Cuban government has earmarked more than $21,000,000 to purchase goods from Canada this year, it was learned here Friday.

This amount represents an increase of more than 50 per cent over the cost of Cuban imports from Canada last year. Canada's exports to Cuba then were $13,079,000.

The revolutionary government has budgeted a total of $21,653,000 for Canadian imports this year. However, this is still only a tentative estimate. The budget does give an idea, however, of how much Cuba's foreign trade ministry thinks it can buy in Canada.

Purchase in 1961 will be the largest on record from the standpoint of Canadian sales to Cuba if the $21,000,000 figure is reached.

Canadian exports to Cuba got off to a good start this year with sales in January reaching $2,150,000, compared with $2,317,819 during the first three months of 1960.

MORE TROOPS SENT

Creston Flood Menace Grows

CRESTON, B.C. (CP)—A 50,000-acre area of reclaimed farmland south of here is threatened by the rising waters of the swollen Kootenay River.

The level Friday was eight inches from the top of the lower dikes protecting the area which lies between the south end of Kootenay Lake and the United States border, 500 miles east of Vancouver. This village, on high ground, is out of danger.

(Meanwhile it was announced from the army's Western Command at Headquarters at Edmonton that a second contingent of 40 troops had been sent to the threatened area at the request of B.C. Attorney-General Bonner.)

About a half-dozen families live in the area, but the rich farmland already is fertilized and seeded and flooding would cause millions of dollars damage.

The area is caught in a squeeze as the river rises through a record runoff caused by the current hot spell while Kootenay Lake, into which it flows, also is rising at a rate of six inches a day, thus slowing down the river flow.

(Water rights controller Arthur Paget said in Victoria Friday the first flood crest May 29 at Creston was higher than previous records. There is no way of telling how high the coming crest will be, although it will certainly be higher, he said.)

(Mr. Paget said a survey of snowfields feeding the Kootenay showed the present spell could bring higher runoff rate than that which caused flooding in the area in 1948.)

Local officials fear a two-fold danger is building up. Secretary Guy Constable of the Creston dike district said Friday the pressure could cause breaches in the dikes even if the crest passes without overflowing. He said the 1948 flooding occurred without the river reaching the top of the dikes.

The task of shoring up the earthenwork will have to be done mainly by hand because experts feel it would be dangerous to use heavy machinery near the dikes.

"A high water level of long duration will be very serious," Mr. Constable said.

PPCLI Prepare For Wainwright Training Stint

Beginning next week, members of Victoria's army garrison, the 1st Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will begin loading and servicing vehicles in preparation for a week-long journey to Camp Wainwright, Alberta, for summer manoeuvres.

At dawn on Saturday, June 3, the first group of soldiers will leave Fort Point Barracks and travel by truck convoy to Crowfoot, Alberta, where they will await the arrival of the main body of troops on June 16.

Another road party leaves at 10 a.m. the same morning. About 250 will make the trip by road, while the remainder of the battalion, commanded by Lt.-Col. R. F. Bruce, travel by rail, leaving Victoria on Thursday, June 15.

The road and rail parties will meet at Crowfoot and complete the last leg of the journey by convoy to Camp Wainwright.

About 5,000 troops, from the four western provinces, are expected to take part in this year's summer training plan at the Wainwright concentration.

Heavy purchases of Canadian livestock and poultry—Cuba is striving to build up its resources in both—made up a large part of the early imports.

Pigs, cattle, turkeys and chickens—called food raw materials by the Cuban ministry—make up the largest single item on the tentative budget for 1961. Just over $6,000,000 has been earmarked for the livestock and poultry, needed for breeding purposes and to improve farm output.

Industrial raw materials are second on the list, with $4,860,000 set aside. Other large items are electrical parts and wiring, $2,872,625, and food, $1,566,623.

PROMOTION of Colonel N. H. Ross of Victoria and Winnipeg to the rank of brigadier and commander of the New Brunswick area was announced Thursday by army headquarters. He has been chief of staff at Western Command headquarters in Edmonton, and will succeed Brig. E. C. Brown, who is to retire.

Gaming Raid Yielded $20,500

TORONTO (CP)—The head of the Ontario provincial police anti-gambling squad testified Friday police seized $20,500 when they raided Vincent Feeley's apartment last September.

Sergeant John Anderson was the last prosecution witness before the weekend adjournment of the bribery trial of Feeley, Joseph McDermott and former OPP Constable Robert Wright.

The three men are charged with conspiracy to bribe Const. George Scott.

Sgt. Anderson testified he was listening on an extension phone when Const. Scott tipped off McDermott about an impending gambling raid. Const. Scott had testified he was acting as a double agent, giving information to gamblers while gathering evidence for the OPP.

Sgt. Anderson said he heard Const. Scott tell McDermott the anti-gambling squad was "going down south" May 25, which was an agreed code meaning there would be a raid on the Niagara Falls Ramsay Club.

Woman Slain, Man Charged

TORONTO (CP)—A young Toronto man today was arrested and charged with murder in the slaying of a woman in a rooming house Friday night.

Ronald Ralph Andrews, 21, was arrested in the central YMCA.

The dead woman, in her 40s, was found partly clothed on a bed, her head beaten and a wire clothes hanger around her neck.

Police said she was known to some as Catherine Livingstone but doubted that was her real name. She wore a signet ring with the initials A.R.

Man Dead, One Hurt In Domestic Row

CALGARY (CP)—One man died and a neighbor was in critical condition in hospital today after what police described as a shooting that resulted from a domestic quarrel in a northeast Calgary residential area Friday evening.

Dead is Murray Smart, 42. In hospital is his neighbor, Herbert Stevens, 31.

Police said Smart and his wife quarreled in their home early Friday evening and Mrs. Smart left for the Stevens home. Shortly after, Stevens was shot in the chest as he sat on the rear porch of his home.

Smart was found by police in a bedroom of the Smart home suffering from a bullet wound in the head. He died in hospital six hours later.

PRESENT SYSTEM 'COMPLICATED'

National Education Plan Asked by Mayor

HALIFAX (CP)—A Canadian mayor said Friday the Canadian system of elementary and secondary education is needlessly complicated in administration and suggested the federal government encourage a national program.

John E. Lloyd of Halifax, in an address on education costs to the 24th annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said the school system was financed on the erroneous assumption that property assessments are a fair and equitable measure of the ability of each municipality to pay for education.

He suggested the federal government should provide conditional grants from its tax resources to encourage a national program.

Federal grants should be conditional on the acceptance by each province of a national standard in the form of administration and financing, he said.

BURNABY MAN SPEAKS

Reeve A. H. Emmott of Burnaby, B.C., told delegates the Union of British Columbia Municipalities had suggested the B.C. government accept 100 per cent of all operating costs, leaving the matter of capital costs to be shared on a half and half basis.

Mr. Emmott said that although discussions along these lines had been going on for some time, there was no indication from the government that it plans to alter the present system.

At present a B.C. property owner must contribute towards the cost of education by a basic levy of 15½ mills plus the local share of debt charges incurred through the construction of new school buildings and other non-sharable costs, which produces a provincial mill rate ranging between 19½ and 22 mills.

"If we were successful in the endeavor to have the province take over education costs, local taxation would be reduced to 2.68 mills, which would make it possible to either reduce markedly the incidence of local taxation or to increase services proportionately to our citizens," Mr. Emmott said.

Mayor S. L. Buckwold of Saskatoon said education costs were the biggest burden on municipal governments. He said the provincial governments keep increasing grants for education but these grants do not keep up to the cost of new school in growing urban areas.

Mayor Harry Hays of Calgary said a lot of the trouble lay in the administration. "The people on the school boards who are handling large sums of money are people who ran for city councils and couldn't make it," he said.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Friday: Garry B. Taylor, 1034 Oliver, $50 plus licence suspension, careless driving.

URBAN FACILITY BRIEF MISREAD, SAYS ALSBURY

HALIFAX (CP)—Mayor A. T. Alsbury of Vancouver charged Friday Works Minister Walker with a "serious misunderstanding" in his interpretation of a brief submitted to the federal government by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Mr. Alsbury, speaking to a seminar at the federation's annual meeting, said Mr. Walker had stated that in the federation brief dealing with improvement and renewal of urban facilities "there was an insistent assumption that the federal government could rightfully be expected to bear the major share of these undertakings."

Mayor Alsbury said the federal government has been asked to share with provinces and municipalities and not to "bear the major share of the cost."

IN JAPAN

Parliamentary Fists Fly

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's Diet (parliament) was thrown into bedlam today as the ruling Liberal-Democrats steamrollered over Socialist opposition to push through a controversial bill aimed at wiping out political terrorism. Fist fights broke out on the floor.

Outside, more than 30,000 left-wing demonstrators marched past the present petitions opposing the bill, which they claim infringes constitutional freedoms.

About 4,000 members of the radical college student association, Zengakuren, clashed with helmeted police. Three policemen were injured by flying rocks. At least four students were arrested.

The lower house saw the most violent fist fights in its history. Protesters exchanged blows with Liberal-Democrats. Shirts and suits were torn, but no injuries were reported.

Assassin Slain, Three Caught

By E. L. ALMEN
CIUDAD TRUJILLO (AP)—The Dominican government claimed today to have shot dead one of the assassins of dictator Rafael Trujillo and captured three others. But the accused mastermind of the plot was still at large.

Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr., the dictator's son, was directing the manhunt for members of the band of killers amid reports of a widespread crackdown on suspected anti-government elements.

The plot against the elder Trujillo, who ruled with a tyrannical hand for 31 years, was disclosed to have reached right into the presidential palace.

The slain assassin was identified as Lieut. Amado Garcia Guerrero, an aide to President Joaquin Balaguer, the figurehead Dominican chief of state.

The accused chief plotter, retired Gen. Juan Tomas Diaz, was still at large.

Among the three accused conspirators seized was a civilian caught in a Roman Catholic parish house. The resident priest Rev. Gabriel Maduro, was taken into custody on charges of giving asylum to the man, identified as Huascar Antonio Trejeda Pimentel.

GEN. JUAN DIAZ
... in mountains?

An armed forces communique said Lieut. Garcia Guerrero was machine-gunned to death hiding in an aunt's house here. He put up a fight and shot two security agents, killing one, before being killed himself.

There were seven in the band that carried out the assassination of Trujillo Tuesday night.

A former army captain, Pedro Livio Cedeno, was captured after being wounded in a gunfight with Trujillo and his chauffeur. An engineer, Roberto Pastoriza, also was in custody.

Three others who were riding in a group of cars that ambushed the generalissimo were still at large. One of them, Antonio Imbert, was believed to have been wounded in the roadside gun battle. The others were Salvador Estrella, an army officer's son, and Antonio de la Maza Vasquez.

Gen. Diaz, named as the author of the plot, did not take part in the actual slaying of Trujillo.

Two armed forces communiqués issued after the generalissimo's funeral Friday said about 20 persons already have been rounded up in connection with the plot.

NOMINATED by the ruling Philippine Nationalista party, President Carlos P. Garcia will be seeking a second four-year term in general elections next November.

Prisoner Deadline Set

DETROIT (AP)—Fidel Castro, who has been silent on his two-week-old offer to exchange 1,200 prisoners now in Cuban jails for 500 tractors, has been given until Wednesday to make a reply to an American group willing to provide the tractors.

Tractors for freedom, a group dedicated to obtaining the release of prisoners taken in the Cuban invasion, cabled the Cuban premier Friday night inviting action on his May 17 offer and saying it was ready to co-operate.

The group said the free world would interpret a "failure to respond affirmatively" as a retraction by Castro of his own offer.

Signing the cable were Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, honorary chairman of the committee, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University; president Walter P. Reuther, of the United Auto Workers' Union; and Detroit banker Joseph M. Dodge, committee treasurer.

The committee told Castro it could not proceed further without his confirmation. The committee said it understood that for every 100 tractors delivered Castro would release 100 prisoners.

Tories Said Lagging In Aid to Idle Miners

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — The great annual coal debate concluded Friday in the Commons with the Liberal Party accusing the government of lacking plans to put displaced Cape Breton miners in other jobs.

Donald MacInnis (PC—Cape Breton South) suggested a $1,500,000 federal fund for that purpose could be vastly expanded to $25,000,000 or $50,000,000.

Mines Minister Comtois said plans for approved projects have to be worked out with the Nova Scotia government to use the $1,500,000 fund. These would be announced in due course.

The government had at least 15 months to prepare for the latest mine closings, said J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonaville-Twillingate). Caledonia mine—employing 800—had closed Wednesday at Glace Bay and the "government still has no project at all on which to spend this $1,500,000," he said.

The facts are that some "very serious projects" have been studied, Mr. Comtois replied. Mr. MacInnis said a larger fund might be cheaper in the long run and would allow new industries to borrow from it.

Lawrence E. Kindt (PC—MacLeod), an economist, raked the Rand royal commission report on the coal industry as fit only for the garbage can in its recommendations for Western Canada subsidies. Contrary to the report, he urged continued aid to export western coal to Japan.

The coal debate petered out with final approval for the current budget of the department of mines and technical surveys and the Commons moved on to resume study of the secretary of state's spending estimates. This continues today.

Fierce Debate on Political Morals

The political morality of Canada's four major political parties—Progressive Conservatives, Liberals, CCF and Social Credit—was the subject of a brief but heated debate.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) started the row by stating Clarence Fines made $3,000,000 while he was treasurer in Saskatchewan's CCF government.

He also said members of Alberta's Social Credit government enriched themselves through the province's natural resources.

Subjects of his attack on the Liberals were Don MacKay and William Hawrelak, former mayors of Calgary and Edmonton respectively, and both the subjects of municipal probes.

Over the objections of government supporters, deputy speaker Jacques Flynn allowed Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur) to make a brief rebuttal. Fisher said Woolliams was in no position to comment on the political morality of other parties because of the involvement of the Conservatives in scandals in the Northern Ontario Natural Gas Corp., the Ontario highways department and the Eastview city council.

Also discussed was a private bill sponsored by H. W. Herdridge (CCF—Kootenay West) to curb water pollution through amendments to the Criminal Code. Hefty fines—$50,000 for a second offence—were proposed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

But it was "talked out"—debated to the end of the hour set aside for private members' bills and then dropped to the end of a long list.

Fisheries Minister MacLean said that some 150 Russian fishing boats are operating off Newfoundland coast—but well out to sea.

Former Editor Of BCE Buzzer Dies in Hospital

Thomas R. Myers, former editor of the B.C. Electric Buzzer, died in hospital Friday at the age of 77 after a brief illness.

Mr. Myers, 1178 Fort, edited the Buzzer for 34 years between 1916 and 1949. He had joined the B.C. Electric in 1908, serving as clerk time-keeper with the early-day gas department. He was born in England and came here early in the century.

Mr. Myers was widely known in Victoria music circles, being an organist in several city churches. He was also a member of the Victoria Convention of Cruelty of Animals.

Green Hopes Ks Can Settle Laos

REGINA (CP)—The peace conference on Laos will succeed if President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev at their meeting today agree "to pour cold water on the Laotian situation," External Affairs Minister Green said Friday.

He was here to address the Saskatchewan conference of the United Church of Canada. At a press conference, Mr. Green said the two leaders can agree to work together on problems presented by Laos, Berlin and disarmament.

"There will be a good deal of value in the meeting if they establish talking relations—friendly relations," he said, but "these summit conferences are full of dynamite."

Asked if he approved of summit diplomacy, he said, "we approve of anything that will bring about a relaxation of tensions."

Later, he told the United Church conference the survival of civilization is at stake in the cold war.

"This is no time to get excited," Mr. Green said.

"Our broad policy in foreign affairs is first of all to do everything we can to reduce tensions and keep heads cool. We in Canada have never stood for unilateral disarmament and we do not now. Canada stands for disarmament by agreement and under reasonable control."

Great Collaborator Of Broadway Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Playwright George S. Kaufman, so-called "gloomy dean" of Broadway, whose tart wit delighted theatre audiences for nearly a half-century, died on Friday at the age of 71.

A series of strokes that began 18 months ago left him bedridden, and a final stroke caused his death at his Park Avenue home, where he lived alone except for his household staff.

"He held his wit and humor up to a few weeks ago," said his only child, Mrs. Anna Schneider.

Kaufman produced his best works in a series of collaborations with some of the great names of the American theatre. He and Morris Ryskind won a Pulitzer prize in 1932 for Of Thee I Sing, and he won a second with Moss Hart in 1937 for You Can't Take It With You.

Other big Kaufman hits included The Royal Family, Dinner at Eight, and Stage Door, written with Edna Ferber; Bring Up the Girls, with Ryskind; I'd Rather Be Right, and The Man Who Came to Dinner, with Hart.

Kaufman, a man with bushy eyebrows that matched the wild grandeur of his pompadour hair, also produced a number of plays.

Cart Before Horse

MR. PEARSON IS RIGHT IN saying that the Canadian government should not have signed the Columbia treaty until it had reached agreement with the British Columbia government on the electrical development of the river.

But this, as Mr. Pearson will surely agree, is the wisdom of hindsight. The federal government signed the treaty because it thought it had an agreement with the provincial government. It had every right to think so.

As Mr. Fulton said in Parliament the other day, the provincial government was fully represented by its senior officials in the framing of the treaty in every detail. Against its own wishes, the federal government changed the whole engineering design of the power scheme to suit the provincial government. It moved the storage area for downstream power from the Kootenay valley to the Arrow Lakes.

In the end the provincial government, as Mr. Fulton says, approved every aspect of the scheme. With that approval, the federal government naturally felt safe in signing the treaty. But it hadn't counted on Mr. Bennett's second thoughts.

Without warning, he held up the whole project by referring it to his provincial Energy Board and then proposing impossible financial terms to the federal government. No wonder the federal government is baffled and furious. And no doubt it realizes that it should not have signed the treaty before it had bound the provincial government by iron contract.

It should be understood, however, that the federal government is not obligated to execute the treaty, to do any work on the Columbia, until the treaty is ratified by the Canadian Parliament. Until then no contract will exist between Canada and the United States.

Presumably the federal government will not make a second mistake by asking Parliament to ratify the treaty before an agreement with the provincial government has been reached. It seems improbable that ratification can be completed at Parliament's present session, that construction can begin this year or that thousands of men can be given work, as planned, next winter.

The responsibility for delay is solely Mr. Bennett's. If the whole scheme is wrecked, as it may be, that responsibility also will be his.

It is to be supposed, however, that he is playing his cat-and-mouse game with Ottawa mainly in the hope of getting better financial terms from Ottawa, and, above all, massive exports of electricity, as presently prohibited by federal policy. For exports are essential to his Peace River power scheme. At some point Mr. Bennett probably will end this farce and allow the Columbia to be dammed but that point may be some distance away.

Meanwhile, since the construction schedule has been delayed and the treaty stalled, the federal government could wisely consider some changes in the engineering design. If the height of the proposed Arrow Dam could be reduced, the only valid criticism of the scheme would be removed.

This high dam, with the resulting inundation of a beautiful valley and some valuable farm land, was demanded by the provincials, not the federal government. The Ottawa authorities never liked that aspect of the scheme and undoubtedly would be glad to alter it if the provincial government would agree.

The United States, of course, would have to agree also and a change in the treaty would require re-negotiation with the American government. That would be a difficult business and might take some time but if Mr. Bennett has done nothing else, he has provided plenty of time.

Assuming that construction cannot start before next year, as seems likely, why couldn't the federal government use this pause to seek agreement with the United States on a lower Arrow Dam. Or would Mr. Bennett veto that improvement?

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

THOSE who would like to take a look into the far-off past should go out to Muir Creek, in the Jordan River area, then go down to the beach and hike along to the sandstone cliffs.

The fossil beds are spectacular. Embedded in the hard sandstone you can find many kinds of shell fossils of ancient sea creatures. There are clams, muscles, limpets and two or three kinds of snails and whelks.

Some of them can be broken loose from the fragments of rock that have been submerged in the sea and then left on the beach. Lots of the fossils are whole, showing the complete outline and shape of the creature.

It is fascinating to note the different layers in the cliff face. For instance, there will be a layer of gravel then one of sand, then the fossils strung out in almost even lines.

Above these rock formations you will see the blue clay strata, and then the overburden. A geologist can tell the age of each layer.

It is most interesting to see growing from the cliff face, anywhere there is a minute pocket of soil, the large yellow Monkey flower or Mimulus with its snapdragon head nodding down at you.

In one place on a grassy slope there is a clump of these beautiful flowers about 50 feet square and worth going a long way to see.

LOOSE ENDS

A Pitying Glance at the Poor, Backward Europeans

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MR. JAMES RESTON, the famous correspondent of The New York Times, has just made an interesting discovery in Europe. That ancient continent, he reports, has hit on a wonderful idea. It has devised "some fast metal vehicles which carry human beings at high speed on steel rails from one city to another in accordance with a pre-arranged schedule." This invention is called a railway train, and it actually works. What will those who Europeans think up next?

After his experiences in the automotive traffic of Washington and the subways of New York, Mr. Reston is amazed to find in Switzerland that the new machines called railway trains "provide comfortable seats for every passenger, together with hygienic comfort rooms and dining cars which serve Waldorf-Astoria food and wine at cafeteria prices."

EQUALLY remarkable, Mr. Reston notes that the same epidemic of punctuality and service has broken out on the European airways. They "seem to be operating on the original theory that passengers are members of the human race. They think food should be edible and prices reasonable, and they appear to be acting on the assumption that it should take less time to get your luggage from the plane to the taxi than it takes to fly from London to Paris."

All this will hardly be credited by Mr. Reston's fellow countrymen or by most Canadians but I can testify that it is true. The Europeans are incredible. Of course we North Americans could manage things much better, if we had a mind to, but considering their natural limitations and intellectual backwardness, the Europeans do quite well on the whole.

TAKE Switzerland where Mr. Reston has been studying the primitive inhabitants. If that tiny fragment of sterile mountain and a few pockets of arable soil were part of North America how much better off it would be!

Instead wringing a livelihood out of this barren environment and laboriously building up one of the highest living standards in Europe, the Swiss, if they were North Americans, would have found their territory long ago, declared an emergency area which would be subsidized by the general taxpayers. They would not be compelled to maintain their expensive railways, to invent their cunning watches or manage their great international banks. They could take it easy and enjoy life.

FOR that matter, if all of Europe were as advanced and born as clever as we are in America it would not have been compelled to invent its Common Market and all that complex apparatus of co-operation which makes its economy the most dynamic in the world.

We have never found it necessary to go through all these laborious arrangements. Our superior abilities have made us so rich that we can be well satisfied with an economy which lately has refused to grow at all. It has the slight disadvantage of maintaining a high rate of unemployment but we can well afford that. And as for food, wine, hotels and service to the travelling public, which impress a simple American like Mr. Reston, we are above that sort of thing. Our minds are set on higher aspirations. We are unselfishly telling the world how to be more like us. We are setting a noble example to the poor Europeans and other backward races.

YET privately we must wonder sometimes what a people like the Swiss would have done with a country like Canada if they had happened to stumble on it in the first place.

They have taken a minor patch of real estate, which would fit into a corner of most Canadian provinces, a patch where no sensible real estate operator would invest a dollar, and they have erected there, probably by mere accident, one of the soundest, happiest nations on earth; just as the Dutch have reclaimed and farmed the floor of the sea, the Danes have made a good living on a few acres which we would have abandoned long ago and the British have supported some fifty million people on a pitifully small, impoverished island.

GIVEN a nation like ours, stretching between three oceans and endowed with every kind of wealth, what would the backward Europeans have done with it? Not, at any rate, what we have done with it. But then, everybody can't have our intelligence.

Stabilizing Work in the Woods

SETTLEMENT OF CONTRACT negotiations between woodworkers and the forest industries without a strike is good news for British Columbians.

To reach accord, both parties have shown a willingness to make concessions. Labor has foregone its original demand for across-the-board wage increases of 12½ cents an hour. Management has agreed to a cost-sharing welfare program for which it will pay 50 per cent. In addition an extra statutory holiday has been granted to the unions at a cost estimated to represent a one cent an hour increase in pay.

How much money will be involved in the welfare program has not been announced. The workers will pay half of the premiums for $5,000 group insurance, $5,000 accidental death and dismemberment insurance, $35 a week sickness and non-compensable accident benefits for a period of 26 weeks, and for M.S.A. or an equivalent medical scheme. These provisions will extend for six months in the event of a lay-off.

Obviously this will increase production costs. At the same time, it should lend a measure of stability to the industry with union members investing in their own protection.

The question left unanswered by the agreement centres on the ability of the industry to compete in the open market with additional charges added to production. This is a factor of some significance as the export trade to the United Kingdom reportedly moves into the doldrums and Canadian sales to the U.S., according to the industry, are about average, neither spectacularly large nor dismayingly small.

From an economic point of view the chief benefit of the settlement seems to be that production will proceed without the disruption of a strike—that blunt instrument which has injured both workers and management in some previous years and has dealt a heavy blow to the provincial economy, dependent as it is on the woods industries for about half of every dollar produced in British Columbia.

On the surface at least it appears that labor, abandoning its earlier position demanding wage increases, has created for itself a very tangible stake in continued operations. Management has made a similar investment. Provided industry can carry the costs and remain competitive in the world markets, this seems to be a constructive step forward in relations between the two. On their co-operative attitudes much of the welfare of the province depends.

FROM OTTAWA

Both Major Parties Take Satisfaction From the Results

By TOM GOULD

THE post mortem into the recent by-elections goes on and on. Liberals and Conservatives both are taking a good deal of satisfaction from the results, although the Tories, having retained three out of four seats, obviously have more to crow about.

The big surprise of this little general election was Restigouche-Madawaska. Like many others, this reporter, after a swing through the three eastern ridings, firmly believed this area would return to the Liberal fold.

All the usual signs were there: a meeting of 2,700 highly-enthusiastic Liberals, the provincial Liberals throwing their full weight into the campaign, the contrast between the two candidates, one young and eager, the other middle-aged and quite pedestrian.

As a result of the Tory win, Liberal premier Louis Robichaud has much to worry about. He made himself a central figure in the campaign, and he took it on the chin. He was among his own people, the French-speaking New Brunswickers who live in the northern area of the province. Liberal MLA's hold every one of the six provincial seats within the boundaries of Restigouche-Madawaska.

The campaign in that riding could not be divorced from provincial politics. The head man on the Tory side was maverick Charlie Van Horne, who resigned the seat in disgust at the policies of the Diefenbaker government. Van Horne's picture, shared equal billing with that of candidate Edgar Fournier on the party's billboards.

Van Horne is after the Conservative provincial leadership, vacated when former Premier Hugh John Fleming was defeated, and packed his bags for Ottawa and membership in the federal cabinet. He had to prove to the doubting Thomases in the Tory organization that he has the punch to beat Robichaud. Van Horne did just that.

Kings, on P.E.I., was predictable. Both sides figured the Liberal and Tory candidates would be little more than 100 votes apart. The Liberals ran old war-horse Tom Kickham. It will be his last time out, and a younger candidate should be more formidable in the next federal election. Conservative Mrs. Margaret Macdonald, whose husband's death opened the seat, will not be able to count on a strong sympathy vote next time out.

Leeds was predictable as well. It was a straight personality contest between Liberal John Matheson and Tory Elwood Stewart.

Matheson, pounding through the riding day and night chasing the support, was a much more appealing candidate than Stewart, who ran a lacklustre campaign. Matheson had been told he might lose by one or two votes. It bothered him so much he refused to stop, although he was in considerable pain from his paralyzed legs.

And Esquimalt-Saanich would have been too much for the Liberals to ask, considering the massive Conservative majority rolled up in the past by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, VC.

The Liberals had hoped for a two-two split, and almost all the political commentators believed they would get such a split.

The popular vote for the four ridings provided some confirmation of what the Gallup Poll has been saying. The Liberals got 45 per cent of the votes cast, the Tories 44.

The Liberals also can take comfort in the shift of votes from the Conservatives compared with 1958. In that election the Tories got 53,682 votes in the four ridings involved. In the by-elections, they got 35,267 votes. Liberal votes rose from 29,514 in 1958 to 36,077.

What is clear is that there are many Canadians who have lost their faith in the Diefenbaker government, but not all of them are yet ready to turn back to the Liberals. It remains to be seen whether the processes of disenchantment will complete the full circle before the next federal election.

The New Party is still an imponderable. Judging by Esquimalt-Saanich, it could cause many seats to change hands, without making headway of its own. New Party voters are, surprisingly enough, coming from the ranks of the 1958 Tories.

THEY HAVE INHERITED A WONDROUS EARTH

In Hope of Scaring a Few More Bats Out of the Belfries

I ALWAYS said we had everything in Victoria, and it now appears that I spoke more truthfully than I knew. My little plug for Martin Gardner's "Fads and Fallacies" (Ballantine Books, 50 cents) stirred up the bees in a number of local bonnets, so I am now in a position to hazard a guess as to the number of flat-earthists who read my column. I don't know how you react to fundamentalists, but I find them extraordinarily difficult to deal with. Their letters, crammed with quotations, meticulously footnoted with chapter and verse from the Bible, are couched in a distinctive prose which radiates good fellowship and brotherly love.

It is impossible to feel sorry for them because they are already ahead of you at that game. "Only believe the Word," they chirrup, "and you will find all doubts and intellectual worries slipping from you. You will be a much happier man."

You cannot argue with them: they are not, by their very nature, open to reason.

In the hope of scaring a few more bats out of the belfries hereabouts, let me pass on to you some of the other weird cults and cranky notions uncovered by Gardner. Are there, for instance, any followers of Roger Babson in the house? This very shrewd stock market tipster, sank some of his winnings into the establishment of a Gravity Research Foundation, dedicated to the search for "some alloy" that will be impervious to the force of gravity.

This strange pursuit seems to have originated with a casual remark made to Babson by Thomas Edison, but well-brought-up readers will remember that H. G. Wells thought of it independently, and used it as a gimmick in his book, The First Men in the Moon.

Mr. George Rideout is the president of this ambitious foundation, and he has given his own theory of gravity. Some forgettable words: "Gravity," says Rideout, "apparently suits the action to the word, 'is a form of stored up magnetic waves which, for a billion years, have been thrown out from the sun and absorbed by every particle which now attracts every other particle'."

Simple, isn't it? And yet somebody had to think of it first.

Interesting Sidelights

Gardner offers some interesting sidelights on the widespread belief in the powers of "dowsers." I have never witnessed a dowser in action, so I cannot say how accurately these gifted people can claim to locate the water of oil, coins, or whatever they are hired to find, but I can say that the evidence drawn from tests conducted under scientifically-controlled conditions goes to indicate that dowsers are no more successful than the ordinary man in the street acting entirely at random without benefit of hazel-twig.

Since there is water almost everywhere under the ground, seldom very far from the surface, it does not require much in the way of occult powers to find it. If such a power exists, it seems odd that it never seems to function when the experiment is supervised by a scientist.

If you believe in psychic phenomena, racial purity, perpetual motion machines and the protocols of Zion, you probably have some original notions of how to cure what ails you. Don't you feel that orthodoxy medicine is a large-scale, well-organized, highly disciplined swindle on the public? Isn't it better to rely on homeopathy, naturopathy, iridagnosis and blackstrap molasses?

40 Zones 40

I personally feel very drawn to the iridologists who believe that "the iris is divided into about 40 zones which run clockwise in one eye, counter-clockwise in the other. The zones connect by nerve filaments to various parts of the body, much in the manner that chiropractic theory connects the body to parts of the spine. Spots on the iris are called 'lesions.' They indicate malfunctioning of the corresponding body part."

If I had known about zone therapy, too, I could have saved myself from baldness. Benedict Lust's cure for falling hair is simpler even than Max Howell's strengthening exercises. It works (?) by "rubbing the fingernails of both hands briskly one against the other in a lateral motion for three or four minutes at a time, at intervals throughout the day. This stimulates nutrition in all the zones, and brings about a better circulation in the entire body, which naturally is reflected in the circulation of the scalp itself."

I find Dr. Still, the founder of osteo-pathy, an attractive figure. I like the boldness of his assertion: "I pay no attention to laboratory stories of micro-organisms. We have but little time to spare in analyzing urine, blood lymph or any other fluid substance of the body because we think life is too precious to dilly-dally in laboratory work."

In his autobiography Still has told how, by spinal rubbing, he "grew hair three times longer in a week, a head completely bald." His textbook will show you how to manipulate spines with the skill necessary to cure "yellow fever, malaria, diphtheria, rickets, piles, diabetes, dandruff, constipation and obesity." There's glory for you.

I learn with rising indignation that the National Chiropractic Association does not recognize the clinic run by B. J. Palmer, son of Daniel D. Palmer, who invented chiropractic in the intervals of selling groceries in Davenport, Iowa. When B.J. says that diphtheria is caused by the subluxation of the sixth dorsal vertebra, I'm the guy beneath the rostrum shouting, "You tell 'em, B.J.!"

Loud Support

I live in hope that if I support the Palmer clinic loudly and often they will let me use their wait-for-it—electro-encephalogram.

Laugh all you like, you skeptics. Admit that you occasionally have doubts about this or that. Not so the nuts and cranks, orognomists and diatneticians. For lo, it is written: "Blessed are the poor in logic, for they have already inherited a wondrous earth: flat, free from germs, gravity and all reason."

Mr. E. G. Rowebottom

DESPITE THE SHOCKING suddenness of his passing, it was characteristic that Mr. Edwin G. Rowebottom should have died pursuing the busy affairs which had kept him active all his adult life. Ed Rowebottom was a stranger to idleness.

In a host of organizations, many of which honored him with senior office, he had created a reputation for activity, for leadership and for the ability to get things done.

Victoria had been his home since early school days. To Victoria he had made contributions widely recognized. The Masonic order, the Y.M.C.A., Canadian Club, United Commercial Travellers, Salvation Army and tourist-bureaus all knew the effectiveness of his direction, his constructive and optimistic philosophy.

Past the psalmist's three-score-and-ten, he was still a man occupied with the issues and the problems of the day—a man still engaged in active and useful enterprise.

He will be remembered by countless citizens for a multitude of projects cheerfully entered upon and ably completed.

A Compliment to Canada

BRITAIN HAS COMPLIMENTED this country by posting the Right Hon. Viscount Amory as high commissioner to Canada.

He brings outstanding capabilities to his work. A distinguished parliamentarian and British Cabinet member, who resigned from the post of Chancellor of the Exchequer to take his seat in the House of Lords, he has enjoyed wide experience and success in other fields, notably business. His interests and his studies equip him admirably for the duties he now assumes. Not least significant will be his knowledge of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation, for whose council of ministers he has acted as chairman.

His appointment to Canada reflects the importance attached by Britain to the affairs of our country. It could also suggest some anxiety in London over Canadian trading policies and the effect these policies will have on British industry, matters on which the new high commissioner is thoroughly informed.

As Our Readers See It

"Outraged," Simply

Now that the Victoria High biased sports reporter who covered the inter-high track meet has inflated his (probably) former school and excused their fair loss, please print one-of-the-many-outraged-students-of-Oak-Bay's side of the picture.

Firstly:
"The victory for upstart Oak Bay was only the second in 13 years." I should hope we should come out and win. Vic High should not be allowed to monopolize the track and field category of sports as it has, until this year, basketball—all the time.

Secondly:
"The issue wasn't decided until the 31st event on the 32-event program." Never at any point in the meet was Vic High any closer than eight (8) points to us. The average margin was 14 points.

Thirdly:
"Oak Bay runners do all their training on a hole-marked field." Don't knock it, chum. So do all the others but Vic High, who, being the only school with a cinder track, is bound to be the perennial winner. And their track was largely donated. We just have to activate a few clubs around town.

Fourthly:
"Oak Bay's Tom Smith ran into one of Rick Skermer's elbows and went sprawling on the cinders." Skermer knocked Smith down in attempting to pass, as anyone in the stands saw, it seems, your reporter could see. And "The collision probably cost Skermer a solid third behind Mount View teammate..." Now wait a minute. It cost us the race.

Lastly:
"...edging Vic High 178-153." This was the final score. I call 25 points, a fair edge. Don't you? I think we should be credited with our victory instead of this excusing.

I hope the next inter-high meet is covered by an impartial sports reporter. After all, neither ability nor effort is a sin.

Editor's Note: The writer is entitled to her opinion of a report-turned in by a person not connected with Victoria High. She should note, however, that the Oak Bay entry was running fourth and trying to overtake the boy ahead when the controversial spill occurred.

Exasperating Service

Does anyone get exasperated with the poor service of the Victoria postal delivery?

During the years I have noticed that whereas letters air-mailed from Illinois on a Wednesday would arrive on Friday, those sent on Thursday were not delivered until the Monday, so that anything sent for a special occasion, and occurring on a Saturday or Sunday was always late.

I am used to that, but when a letter postmarked 7 a.m., Thursday, May 18, is not delivered until Tuesday the 23rd, I do feel a protest is in order. Surely when the Monday is to be a holiday, the mail arriving at the post office on Saturday should receive some attention. Even the banks make special provision for the longer weekend holiday.

I know all business houses other than stores are not open to receive their mail on Saturday's but what about the poor little individual? Has he no rights? His news may be of importance too.

What Type of Mentality?

The more one hears or reads about the antics and utterances of Gagliardi the more one is led to wonder what type of mentality is responsible for the votes which return him to office.

Could it be that a certain type of individual can swallow anything in a politician (save the mark) as long as he promises roads, highways and such, or are there actually people who do take him seriously as a person?

His utterances at the Sanscha Hall meeting for the Soledad candidate in the recent by-election were beyond anything silly, especially with regard to Mr. Howard Green. One cannot imagine the premier feeling very happy after having made such a thing about the Esquimalt-Saanich election being crucial to have the Soledad funny boy label it minor.

It is a sobering thought, however, when realization of the great amount of responsibility the man holds, occurs to one, especially as one realizes that it is our hard-earned tax-paying dollars which create that responsibility.

Saanich Water

Last summer in the Ten-Mile Point district when our water taps went dry at 9 a.m. and we were without water until 9 p.m., we were told that there was to be no water regulations because some very wealthy people in Saanich had installed automatic watering systems and as these people would be away from home all summer, we would have to go without.

Oh, yes, Mr. Chatterton had all kinds of good advice. We could fill up our bathtubs and kettles and pots, etc. Or we could buy an electric pump and pump water up from the mains.

Well, there was just a few of us so we went dry all summer. We have to suffer for the benefit of people who were not even living in Saanich. They could have hired a boy for 50 cents a week to turn on the water-automatic systems, also work manually. Other years we always had water when regulations were started in July, but the "plan man" told us that rich man's grass was more important than people.

OLD TIMER.

Whose Tensions?

Long ago an old writer said "A babe in the house is a wellspring of pleasure."

Today so many books have been written on the upbringing of children that the hapless parents are confused and alarmed and run to psychiatrists. So instead of being a pleasure many children are a worry and anxiety. One such "child counsellor" advised the mother of a three-year-old who was aggressive and destructive to "give him something he could tear apart or a drum or a trumpet to release tension."

Whose? To be told that their child is emotionally disturbed sends mothers scurrying to the psychiatrist. Few of us get through the world without some times of emotional disturbance, but we have to learn we cannot take it out on others. In the child these displays are just plain ordinary bad temper and the cure for that is a firm hand (applied in the right place).

Like all young animals children need training and discipline and making the child aware that he has to fit in with others who have an equal right to exist and that he is not the only pebble on the beach. In our young days a display of tantrum would bring a speedy and sharp comeuppance from our "elders and betters."

All this stuff about inhibitions and the jargon we hear about the frightful effects later on of thwarting or causing a feeling of frustration is so much frightening material. Let the infant do as he likes and there will be much more to be frightened about later on. When parents put these so-called child guidance books on the fire and make their off-spring mind, there will be fewer problem children and parents who are nervous wrecks.

PM'S VIEW

Kennedy Canada's Spokesman

OTTAWA (CP)—President Kennedy will be speaking for Canada and other free world nations as well as the United States when he meets Premier Khrushchev in Geneva today, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday night.

"He won't be speaking for the United States alone," Mr. Diefenbaker said. "He will be speaking for us and for free men everywhere."

The prime minister was guest at a banquet given by the American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association, an organization of Americans and Canadians with Greek ancestry.

Mr. Diefenbaker hailed ancient Greece for its contribution of not only the name but the principles of democracy to the world, and said the world today needs a renaissance of ideals and belief in the worth of democracy.

U.K. Losses on Coal

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's national coal board announced a deficit Friday of £22,300,000 for 1960, bringing its total deficit to £77,000,000. It was the ninth year the coal industry has been in the red since it was nationalized by the Labor government in 1947.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

Whodunit? Whahoppen?

To an ordinary voter who does his duty by marking his "X" for the candidate of his choice, the speculations of the political pundits seem hollow things indeed.

For weeks before an election takes place one and all are confidently predicting the success of their party or their man; sometimes both. Arguments of every sort are employed in the business of persuasion which precedes the great day. The simple... or those whom the dedicated consider to be simple... get the direct approach. "Our party will do this or that!" This or that being what the party man thinks the voter wants done. Those who are supposed to be intelligent, and consequently influential (when will politicians stop paying lip-service to the silly notion that the intelligent are influential?) get the subtle treatment. There is talk about splits and majorities, and authoritative graphs showing poll results are produced.

It is all very interesting. But even so, the results do not seem to bear any relationship to the effort expended. This column, having been talked into carrying a political banner on occasion, knows whereof it speaks. There are, by actual count, no less than 5,642 bloody liars in the city of Victoria alone. Or were, a few years ago. Maybe things have changed by now; but I doubt it. As election day approaches, activity is stepped up. Candidates have words to say on every conceivable subject, and by now they are so soaked in the beliefs of their supporters that nothing is inconsistent. When emotions enter, as the old Greek said, reason flies out of the window.

As for the dedicated supporters, they lash themselves into a lather of confidence the like of which was never seen. Honey and forcefulness are applied in such quantity that even the voter, if he listens, gets a little bewildered.

At last comes the quiet of polling day, and the voter is at last free from the distressing bombardment of the preceding weeks. What does he do? Boys in the back room, I have news for you: he goes in to that voting booth and votes according to his very own little old ideas.

Having done his duty by democracy, as it is called, he retires to wait, with some slight degree of interest, for the results. When they are in, he is glad to know who will be his representative on the councils of the nation. What happens after that, he rightly feels is the worry of the new MP.

But the supporters are not yet finished. For weeks they go on with their post-mortems, and the newspapers give their rationalizations prominence according to editorial policy. To read certain papers, one would get the impression that the winners were actually the losers; in others it is made plain that the results show a tremendous groundswell in the grassroots, which should encourage the also rans.

Hooray for the pundits. But the ordinary voter knows what makes grass grow... and it isn't groundswell.

PERSONAL SUCCESS MARKS JFK'S FIRST SUMMITRY

PARIS (AP)—President Kennedy's first effort at European summit diplomacy, his three days of meetings with President Charles de Gaulle, carries all the earmarks of a personal success.

There had been some fear that the American president might not get along with de Gaulle. The contrary was true. From the start there were none of the personality differences that sometimes have marked de Gaulle's high-level dealings in the past.

Although the French president is old enough to be Kennedy's father and often is as aloof as Mount Everest, the two got along famously.

In the final analysis, this first confrontation was not as important in the things they talked about as in how they talked about them. Both men discussed openly and frankly the problems that beset them and saw eye-to-eye on a number of items. Most immediate among these was Berlin, and Soviet efforts to oust the West from that divided German city.

The discussions were broad and general, but three items got priority:

1. Berlin and West Germany.
2. The changing problems of European defence created by the American-Soviet stalemate in nuclear power.
3. The two plugging conferences at Geneva—nuclear test ban and Laos.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

The jacket of Frank O'Connor's autobiographical book, An Only Child, describes the contents as "intensely moving," and for once the jacket says a little less than the truth; this is certainly one of the most moving life stories I have ever read.

The quality of an autobiography springs far less from the story it tells than from the insight and character of the man who tells it. Only yesterday I read the life story of a journalist whose 50 years had been packed with event, but the commonplace quality of his mind and the thinness of his spirit conspired against him to make it a thoroughly dull book.

Frank O'Connor writes of his childhood with compassion; without being common, compassion is not a rare quality. To compassion he adds humour and insight, neither of which are scarcities.

But these gifts are controlled by a magnificent ability to distinguish what is significant from what is merely amusing, or picturesque, or pathetic, and by an objectivity which is rare indeed. O'Connor has done what so few men can do when they write of their past; he has forgiven his youthful self without romanticising that self.

Neither Ideal Nor Idealized

Readers of his fine short stories already know much of his childhood — the drunken father, the enduring, naturally distinguished mother, the barefoot, dirty grandmother and all the queer people who lived in a region of Cork which was only the thickness of a cigarette paper from being a slum.

His readers know something also of the middle of self-education, and the pride of green knowledge that came with adolescence. In An Only Child we learn of the reality behind these fictions.

The child who was Michael O'Donovan (for Frank O'Connor is a pen-name) is not idealized; indeed we can see what a tiresome little boy he must have been, and why his father was so often angry with him; it takes a man of rare quality to look back at his childhood without self-pity or, somewhat rarely, self-hatred.

Brilliant as these early chapters are it is the last section of the book, describing O'Donovan's part in the Irish revolutionary movement, which I found most stirring.

Part revolution, part civil war, that strange chapter of history is told from the point of view of a raw boy who went through it, conscious most of the time that a very little thing would have put him on the opposite side. He was, he says, a "natural collaborator."

I know nothing like it except the chapters in The Charterhouse at Parma in which the hero wanders through a mud-hole of fighting men, horses and meaningless bustle which he afterwards discovers was the Battle of Waterloo.

For O'Donovan it ends when he is put in a prison camp, where one of his jobs is to give classes in Irish; only then does he discover that he knows no grammar in Irish or any other language. He determines to learn the grammar—the form, and the necessary rules—of life itself.

Childers' Portrait a Highlight

After the magnificent portrait of his mother, O'Connor's best achievement in this book is his account of Robert Erskine Childers, the Anglo-Irish author and politician who was court-martialed and shot in Dublin in 1922.

We know Childers' history of devotion to the Irish Home Rule cause, dating from 1908; we know his history as a brave soldier.

But to O'Connor and his comrades, Childers was simply "the Englishman," an ineffectual old gentleman, who wore a lady's pistol pinned to his braces and seemed always to be in the way.

He was, in fact, editing the Republican paper "Poblacht na h-Eireann" at this time. Of course O'Connor knows now what Childers was, and who he was, but he writes of Childers in the light of what he knew and understood at 19.

Reading this book, we see how O'Connor seems to be the realist in fiction that he is. He has not sought the seamy side of life as an adult, moved by conscience, and therefore he feels no impulse to describe it with indignation; the bitterness and indignity of poverty, and also the splendours of the spirit which can flourish in spite of poverty, are his by birth.

A man may reject his birthright, if he chooses, and O'Connor has not chosen to drag the chains of that Cork slum after him for the rest of his life.

The extraordinary freedom of spirit which makes his work individual and sometimes great is the reward of a man who has risen above his beginnings, not only in the things of this world, but in the realm of the spirit.

POLITICAL ISSUES CHALLENGE AUTHOR

West May Provide Means But Can India Finish Job?

INDIA AND THE WEST: Pattern for a Common Policy. By Barbara Ward. George J. McLeod Ltd., Toronto, 253 pages. $5.25.

Reviewed By Hereward Senior (Assistant Professor, Dept. of History, Royal Roads)

Miss Ward offers an able interpretation of India's economic position, and an appeal to the West to provide what she describes as a Marshall Plan for India. She considers that India is now facing the problems of industrialization which Britain faced two centuries ago.

In India's case, this industrial revolution with its accompanying population explosion, dislocation of traditional society, and desperate need of capital, is further complicated by the sudden introduction of universal suffrage.

The illiterate and poverty-stricken majorities lend a ready ear to political extremists who insist on a higher standard of living than the economy can provide. The disorders resulting from impossible demands retard the accumulation of domestic capital and frighten away foreign investment, destroying the means for the sake of the end.

CRUEL CHOICE

The Communists have solved this problem by a ruthless despotism which is prepared to squeeze the necessary capital out of the population. Miss Ward believes that India can avoid the cruel choice between stagnation and despotism if aid on the scale of the Marshall Plan is provided by the advanced industrial powers.

This, the author considers, would not only be morally sound, but building up India economically would strengthen her as a military power, and thus provide a means of balancing the growing might of Red China.

In developing this thesis, Miss Ward presents a gloomier picture of early industrial educational standards and civil service efficiency. Moreover, the repeated assertions by Indians of their right to govern or misgovern themselves is less than an ideal.

As there is no limit to the wealth which corruption and inefficiency can waste, Miss Ward's plan, to be effective, would have to be combined with some measure of supervision and control.

The difficulty lies in persuading India's extremely sensitive educated classes that any supervision is necessary.

Blind RCAF Pilot's Novel Comparable to Greene

By CAROL KENNEDY Canadian Press Staff Writer LONDON (CP) — Two British critics have likened a Quebec author's first novel to the work of the eminent Graham Greene.

The novel, A Man Possessed, published by Secker and Warburg, is by 41-year-old Sidney Bigman of Quebec City.

It is the story of a young French-Canadian farmer who rebels against the stable values of his country Roman Catholic upbringing, and is inexorably destroyed by city vices.

A priest in the novel speaks of Charles-Henri's lust for self-destruction as "perverted faith," and it is here that the august Times Literary Supplement sees a favorite Greene theme — "denial of God, when it hurts, is merely one way of finding him."

The Glasgow Herald critic also finds links with the British novelist in what he describes as "the unbelievable turning through his sins towards God."

REVIEWS GOOD

The Daily Telegraph praises the book as "an illuminating commentary on French-Canadian life and a convincing picture of the vivacious but ingrown little world of the city and province of Quebec."

Malcolm Bradbury, writing in the weekly Punch, describes the novel as "the difficulties of a sensitive young man in French Canada, where an oppressive morality and a closed community stifle intelligence and talent."

Is the book an autobiographical protest, as Bradbury and John Davenport of The Observer see it? Author Bigman, caught on the brink of departure for Spain, vigorously denied any personal portrayal.

Bigman, a wartime RCAF pilot blinded in action, has travelled the world for some years. Now he and his wife are moving to southern Spain, where they hope to settle.

In the meantime he has a play being considered by Britain's Associated Television. Like A Man Possessed, the play has a Quebec City setting, but its theme is light-hearted. Bigman has provisionally titled it Son of a Gun, and describes it as a "kitchen comedy."

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

Victoria philatelists made an excellent showing at the Pacific International Philatelic Exhibition held at New Westminster last week. This affair is an annual event, sponsored by the Northwest Federation of Stamp Clubs, which comprises all the philatelic societies of Washington, Oregon and British Columbia.

Competition was very strong, as 438 frames of stamps were on view.

Harry Whittaker won the gold medal in the championship class with his remarkable collection of Sudan. By virtue of this award the Keen Cup will be held in custody of Vancouver Island Philatelic Society for the coming year.

Mrs. Whittaker obtained the silver medal in the novice class (the highest award in this category) for a collection of the Military Seals of Egypt.

NEWCOMER

W. Stanhope, who has not exhibited before, received the gold medal for his specialized collection of the line-engraved stamps of Great Britain. This was so outstanding that he was runner-up for the Grand Award.

Lester Small was awarded the silver medal for his topical collection, and his daughter Marion the gold medal and Benjamin Weeks Trophy in the junior class. Her sister Helen got a special medal for the best junior entry of a foreign country.

New Zealand, as usual, is issuing on Aug. 2 two "Health" stamps. These are combination postage and charity stamps, and both will depict the white heron, and the 3d + 1d the bush-hawk. They will be printed in miniature sheets, as well as in the ordinary sheets of 120.

ART IN REVIEW

By ARTHUR CORRY

Impressive Sculpture Work of Elza Mayhew

The first major one-man sculpture show to be seen in the Ker Wing and on the grounds of Victoria Art Gallery, was opened this week. The sculptress, so honored, was local artist, Elza Mayhew.

This exhibition is one of the finest sculpture shows to be seen at the Gallery and will continue until June 18.

Too often, today, we think of sculpture in terms of national monuments and the average person is not familiar with items that are readily available by local sculptors. Mrs. Mayhew's display features very fine small pieces, as well as the larger monumental compositions.

"Variations On a Theme," when first seen sitting upon its natural rock base reminds one of a Japanese temple. The surrounding lawns and overhanging trees create a contrast that is certainly delightful.

Several of the exterior pieces, because of shade from the trees, and loss of a direct light, appear a little flat and lacking in form. However, the two compositions in the patio entrance to the Gallery, are most appropriate and compliment the architectural background.

Of smaller pieces in the Ker Wing, I find Mrs. Mayhew's most recent work by far the most interesting. "Toy For A Princess" and "Fabulous Animal," cast in bronze, are truly diverting abstract forms.

"Little Ballerina" is a delight. And "Architectural Study" in cast iron, with its somewhat natural cast texture, and good proportions, merits close examination.

There is an analogous appearance between "Amulet," in bronze, and some early Mexican and even early Greek pieces. In composition stone, which is cast in a block and carved like a form of granite, the "Black Priestess," with its architectural qualities, would receive my prime award.

"Fabled City," of pink composition stone, runs a close second. Going back to the cast iron pieces, "Study For a Large Screen" I find most interesting and would like to see this used architecturally, in full scale.

Her selection, as teacher, of Jan Zach, could not have been better. Here was inspiration and encouragement, a power able to ignite and unleash a vigorous creativity, which, over the years has produced some of the finest sculpture to be seen anywhere.

As so often seen in dedicated artists, the endless time spent in toil creates top original compositions, and the essence of expression reaches a high pinnacle of pure form.

Last year the Sculpture Society of Canada displayed "Warrior" in Quebec and this piece, by Mrs. Mayhew, aroused outstanding attention. "Nep-tune", of cast bronze, was hung in the exhibition of the Ontario Society of Sculptors at the Art Gallery of Toronto this spring.

Other work by her has been exhibited in the United States, Vancouver Art Gallery and the University of British Columbia.

MUSIC OPINION

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Recording star Sam Cooke, who started singing in his father's church in Chicago, thinks today's popular music is an outgrowth of gospel hymns.

"The big difference between gospel songs and traditional hymns is the emphasis on a more rhythmic beat," Cooke said. "This same beat is carried into today's popular music."

ELEANOR COLLINS

Popular Vancouver songstress will be appearing at the Club Tango with two shows nightly at 8.30 and 11.30 p.m. next Friday and Saturday.

Timely Book A Treasury For Traveller

AFRICA A TO Z, by Robert S. Kane (Doubleday): With the internal affairs of Africa becoming more prominent and controversial each day, this timely book is the first of its kind to portray each of the 56 countries making up one-fifth of the world's land mass.

Kane, a seasoned foreign correspondent, traveled extensively in Africa and talked with leaders and people.

He gives information on transportation, food, accommodations, sights to see and shopping, as well as background on the history and culture of each country.

There are about 900 museums and art galleries open to the public in the United Kingdom.

Vengeful Tale Of Canine Jealousy

A WINTER'S TALE, by Jon Godden (Knopf): Every dog owner knows a pet can be jealous of human rivals for affection. But can its jealousy lead an animal to act like a human, avenging real or imagined wrongs? Such a course was taken by Sylvie, a high-strung Alsatian, that turned savage when her master became involved in a love affair. Miss Godden makes the tale plausible and interesting.

Soloists Dominate Next Winter Series

Just released today is Famous Artists' schedule of concerts for the 1961-62 season in Victoria.

It is not surprising, considering that excellent ensemble attractions got the cold shoulder from so many concert-going Victorians last winter, to find the emphasis on single-artist events.

Nor is it surprising to find all the artists' names in the "household words" category, Victorians having proved conclusively that their conservatism does not allow of gambling on the unfamiliar.

So next fall and winter there will be evenings with Rise Stevens, the Met's famous mezzo-soprano, violin maestro Mischa Elman, harpist Mildred Dilling and pianist Jose Iturbi.

In addition, completing a list of six attractions, ballet lovers will be served with two events.

These will be the Zachary Solov Ballet, which stars Irina Borowska and Michael Maule, and the Roberto Iglesias company of Spanish Dancers.

Pianist To Rescue

Due to the illness of popular baritone, John Dunbar, who was to have been guest soloist with Victoria Choral Society next Saturday night, some program revisions have been necessitated.

Scheduled to share the guest spot with Mr. Dunbar, Canadian pianist Mary Munn has stepped into the breach and will add a Mozart Sonata to her program.

Sir Villiers' Stanford's "Songs of the Fleet," in which Mr. Dunbar was to have been featured, will not be performed at this time.

The concert takes place at Oak Bay Junior High School at 8.15. Choral numbers include English folk and modern songs and will be conducted by music director Stanley Hoban.

Teen-Aged Organist In Recital

One of the most promising local organ students, teen-aged David Palmer, is to give a recital next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral.

David already lives a full musical life, for besides holding the post of organist at St. Paul's Naval Garrison Church in Esquimalt, he is also now working for his ARCT diploma in organ performing, having achieved a high First Class Honors mark in Grade 10 exams earlier in the year.

His plans for the future include advanced study in England, an ambition towards which he has worked and saved steadily since the age of 14.

For Wednesday's recital the young musician has chosen the following program:

Prelude and Fugue in E Minor — J. S. Bach
Two Chorale Preludes — J. S. Bach
Toccata, Adagio and Fugue in C — J. S. Bach
Sonata No. 1 in F Minor — Mendelssohn
Morning Prelude — Wesley
Chorale Improvisation — Karg-Elert
Water Nymphs — Louis Vierne

CRIPPEN IN BURLESQUE

Latest London Musical 'In Shocking Bad Taste'

By CAROL KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP) — In Edwardian England they called it "the crime of the century."

Today, 50 years and two world wars later, the Crippen case can still provoke excitement.

The recent production in London of a burlesque musical called "Belle, or the Ballad of Doctor Crippen" has stirred up ashes one might have thought safely dead.

The case had all the elements of a cause celebre. Hawley Harvey Crippen was a mild-mannered little American doctor living in gaslit Islington, a district of north London.

In February, 1910, his wife Belle, a third-rate music-hall singer, disappeared. Crippen explained to friends, and later to the police, that she had gone to America to visit relations.

Nothing more might have been heard of the case. But in the fall of 1910 Crippen ran away to Canada with his pretty secretary, Ethel Le Neve, disguised as a boy. Police searched his house. They found Belle's body cut up and hidden underneath the coal cellar. The remains showed traces of poison.

Crippen's capture was the sensation of the year. As the S.S. Montrose neared the coast of Quebec, a signal was flashed to the ship by Marconi's new-fangled gadget — radio.

At the trial in London's Old Bailey, Ethel Le Neve was acquitted, but her lover was convicted and went to the gallows. Today, his effigy stands in the Chamber of Honors in Tussaud's wax museum.

Ethel Le Neve is still alive. She is 78, married to a man who has never known her true identity. She has two children and a grandson, and lives quietly in a terrace house not far from London. It is said she still has an affection for Crippen.

Only one person in England knows the truth about her—novelist Ursula Bloom. And Miss Bloom isn't telling. She has, however, plenty to say about the new musical.

She thinks it's in "shocking bad taste" and unfair to a woman who has suffered so much. Besides, she doesn't think murder a fit subject for the kind of brassy music-hall burlesque author Wolf Mankowitz has produced.

"Murder is a beastly thing," she says. "You can't treat it with a high kick."

In one scene from the show, three judges in black caps dance and sing "You Can't Beat a British Crime."

Most of the London critics agreed with Ursula Bloom, though the first-night audience gave Belle a rousing welcome.

Now advance bookings are said to be "only fair."

Author Mankowitz retailed by sending one of the most vitriolic critics, diminutive Bernard Levin of The Daily Express, a tiny coffin with a note attached: "Dear Bernie, this is your size, not mine."

The coffin was delivered at The Express building in Fleet Street by the burly Mankowitz and a procession of chorus girls.

But to some commentators, Belle raises issues more alarming than questions of taste.

Leslie Mallory of The Daily Herald recalled: "The first pointer on the ghastly road to Belson was the pollution of Berlin's theatrical life by sick cabarets and cruel, twisted humor."

"They reflected the German taste of the time. Is Wolf Mankowitz, then, simply reflecting ours?"

"If Belle is a hit, we can expect a stream of imitations, culminating in what — Eichmann on ice?"

(BB PLUS) "CRY FOR HAPPY" (Odeon)

"Cry for Happy" is an interesting little lightweight comedy that may not make every one cry for happy but it won't make them cry for sad either.

I suppose you might describe it as almost ideal summer fare.

Or you might say it is a junior "Sayonara." At least it has two of its cast, Miiko Taka and the delightful Miyoshi Umeki who won a supporting Academy Award in it. Unfortunately it has neither the depth nor perspicacity of the old Warner Brothers production.

"Cry for Happy" tells about the combat photography team of Glenn Ford, Donald O'Connor, James Shigeta and Chet Douglas who are quartered in an old bank vault in Kobe, Japan, owing to the housing shortage. Then a Japanese friend of Ford's offers them his cousin's geisha house while she is away holidaying with her girls. Of course before you can say "rota ruk" the geishas are home and so are the boys on the understanding that there is to be no "hankey-pankey."

This is very difficult for the lads to understand as they have preconceived ideas about geishas and hankey-pankey. The lines are flip and sometimes bordering but usually funny as is the action as Ford and company try to hoodwink navy brass that they are out of the kindness of their hearts — running an orphanage.

Irving Brecher wrote the screenplay while George Marshall directed.

A Singer Returns

With a successful student career at the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, just completed, soprano Marlene Vance, a graduate performer, will sing for fellow Victoria music lovers at the Musical Art Society scholarship tea next Saturday, June 10.

The tea will be held at Oak Bay Beach Hotel at 3 p.m.

Miss Vance, latest of an outstanding group of Musical Art proteges, gained a fine reputation in this city before leaving for Toronto, not only as a young singer of talent and promise, but as the possessor of a warm, out-going and co-operative personality and an intensely musical nature.

Those attending the tea will have the opportunity of realizing how these qualities have contributed to the development of a genuine artist.

The attractive singer has chosen a program that is not only revealing of her qualities and achievements, but flatter-

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Now that Victoria's very own season has been tidied away into the memory chest and nothing of its great magnitude looms on the immediate horizon, it is time to talk of other things. Such as, for example, the benefits that culture-minded citizens can enjoy by making the hop to Vancouver this summer.

As they have done for three years past, the Vancouver International Festival Society is offering some rich plums that every other city in Canada might well envy.

In fact, among five "firsts" at least two events will be all-American premieres.

Benjamin Britten's opera, "Midsummer Night's Dream," eagerly sought by several distinguished United States opera organizations, will open at the Queen Elizabeth on August 2 with international stars Mary Costa, Russell Oberlin and Jan Rubes.

Those who shy away from a contemporary music, or have been deaf to the virtues of "Peter Grimes" can take comfort in the fact that the work has been rapturously received by critics and public in world centres.

According to an overseas report in The New Yorker... "It is one of those rare operas that ravish the ears and the eyes simultaneously."

RECALLED WITH DELIGHT
As producer-designer the festival has engaged Harry Horner. Mr. Horner designed and directed Poulenc's "The Carmelites" and Honegger's "Joan of Arc" for the San Francisco Opera and created the sets for a recent Metropolitan Opera production of "The Magic Flute."

Festival opera-goers of the past three years will recall with delight, Mary Costa's lovely voice and presence as Eurycle in the Gluck "Orpheus" and Rubes' excellent Leporello in "Don Giovanni."

As for Mr. Oberlin, this internationally rated American counter-tenor will be singing the role of Oberon which he created at the Covent Garden premiere in February.

The opera has been acclaimed with loud cries of delight in every centre where it has been produced, aside from the John Gielgud's London production—in Hamburg, Zurich and Milan.

FROM RUSSIA
Conductor in Vancouver will be Meredith Davies, who also conducted performances at Covent Garden.

Second of the all-American "firsts" will be the Red Army Chorus.

A distinguishing feature of any Russian ensemble is that the chorus is likely to erupt into dance at any moment and the ballet into song.

And judging from advance reports, the Red Army Chorus can no more resist the urge to express rhythm in action than have any previous groups from the land of the Soviet.

Inevitably too, there will be a certain interest in comparing this product of the new Russia with that of the old—the perennial Don Cossacks.

For those who like spectacle—and who doesn't—there will be the giant Military Searchlight Tattoo, beginning July 14 at Empire Stadium, directed by Brig. Alasdair Maclean who has produced the renowned Edinburgh spectacles.

Children will be served in the unique "Lesson with Glenn Gould" concert on the afternoon of August 7 in the QET. Balletomanes will have the first Western Canada opportunity to see the distinguished

BRAVE MEN CHOOSE

BY DR. FRANK N. D. BUCHMAN

This address goes to the world through press, television and radio from the Moral Re-Armament World Assembly at Caux, Switzerland on the occasion of Dr. Buchman's 83rd birthday, June 4. At this Assembly leaders from every continent are meeting to plan a global strategy to answer corruption, Communism and war.

FORTY YEARS AGO THIS MONTH there came to Oxford a man who had some knowledge of life, some insight into the ways of East and West, who had spent days with Gandhi in India and Sun Yat-sen in China. In what is now Kerala he met an English Bishop who said, "You must go to Oxford. They need the experience you have found."

During those forty years, the conviction he brought to Oxford has been a live issue, rousing men and nations through those who have chosen or rejected his challenge.

It was an Oxford man, a Member of Parliament, who had been Parliamentary Private Secretary to Mr. Macmillan, a man who had a key part in the Cyprus settlement, who this week spoke up for this conviction in public debate. A week before, the head of a college spoke boldly of it in introducing that great African film, "Freedom," to an Oxford audience. These men, and many others, are in the line of those who in Britain's history have brought integrity into national life by their decision. The title of this speech, "Brave Men Choose," is taken from a book by an Oxford man on this very theme, that brave men turn the course of history.

One such man in Oxford was Professor Streeter. The message rang a clarion call to this great scholar. It challenged him. It touched him. In Oxford Town Hall, before many members of the University, he said, "I have been watching this work with what diplomats call 'benevolent neutrality.' Tonight I have decided . . . During these last years I have felt the world situation becoming more full of depression, more full of despair. There is a great deal of goodwill, but there is not enough of it to solve our tremendous problems—war, class war and economic breakdowns." Later he said, "Modern civilization can only be saved by a moral awakening. It can happen in Britain. It will happen if those who lead Britain learn to find in God their inspiration and direction. And Britain thus led would save the world."

"I have decided." There is the key.

A REVOLUTIONARY FAITH

Eleven distinguished members of senior Oxford paved the way for Dr. Streeter's decision, among them the Master of Balliol, the Master of University College, and others who later became heads of colleges. They stood for justice and fair play for this message. It captured a wave of men in Oxford. Oxford became a voice to the world of a revolutionary faith.

It was another great Oxford man, the late Marquis of Salisbury, who speaking in the House of Lords said, "The cause of the world's state is not economic. The cause is moral." He echoed Dr. Streeter's conviction when he said, "If I may use a phrase which is common in a great movement taking place at this moment in this country and elsewhere, what we want are God-guided personalities, to make God-guided nationalities, to make a new world. All other ideas of economic adjustment are too small really to touch the center of the evil."

He, too, decided, and to his home invited this man to meet with the leaders of British life to see how they could unitedly give a moral and spiritual leadership to a world on the brink of collapse. Under the Hatfield trees he walked with friends old and new, among them Lord Lytton, who was later to say that that walk had left an indelible mark on his life.

In East London, in the cradle of the British Labor movement, where Moral Re-Armament was launched, there were also brave men who chose. There was Tod Sloan, Keir Hardie's fellow fighter from the docks. He wrote, "Chaos cannot obtain if we work, live and practice Moral Re-Armament. It is a really laughing, living, loving obedient willingness to restore God to leadership. This to me is the only revolution that matters—the change of human nature—and it does happen."

There was Ben Tillett, pioneer of the dockers' unions across the world. From his death bed he sent this word, "Tell Frank Buchman to go on fighting. You have a great international movement. Use it. It is the hope of tomorrow. It will bring sanity back to the world."

The Earl of Athlone, who first met this message in 1929 when he was Governor-General of South Africa, speaking in a radio broadcast to the British Commonwealth in the early days of the war, said: "The call for Moral Re-Armament has encircled the world, and become a source of fresh hope to millions of men and women. Heads of states, national, civic and industrial leaders of all classes, creeds and parties have welcomed it as the cure for that deep disease of the spirit from which civilization is suffering."

"Moral Re-Armament stands for a change of heart, for that new spirit which must animate all human relationships. It calls on us to make the will of God the guiding force, as for individuals, so for homes and nations."

As the ideological struggle intensified across the world, a growing multitude caught the fire of these pioneers. For only men ablaze for the right can ever hope today to win men who burn for the wrong. "Fire from Heaven," that is how Don Sturzo, patriot-priest of Italy, described Moral Re-Armament in a message sent to the world assembly on Mackinac Island. His thinking inspired the Christian Democrat parties of Italy, France and Germany, which have given three great Europeans to the world—Prime Minister de Gasperi, Prime Minister Schuman and Chancellor Adenauer.

Prime Minister de Gasperi expressed his conviction that Moral Re-Armament by going "to the root of the world's evils will bring about the understanding between men and nations for which all people long."

Prime Minister Schuman wrote, "What Moral Re-Armament brings us is a philosophy of life applied in action. It is not a question of a change of policy. It is a question of changing men. Democracy and her freedoms can be saved only by the quality of the men who speak in her name."

Chancellor Adenauer knows the value of Moral Re-Armament. He says it has played "an invisible but effective part in bridging differences of opinion between negotiating parties in important international agreements."

These brave men chose. Now a world-wide army is surging forward on every continent.

LATIN AMERICAN OFFENSIVE

Four weeks ago there arrived in Brazil, a focal target of the Kremlin for Latin America, a force of 150 from twenty-four countries. Thousands flocked to see the Japanese play, The Tiger, showing the answer to the Tokyo riots. Thousands more who could not get in saw films giving the answer to conflict of race, class and ideology.

The President summoned this force to the capital, Brasilia. Led by General Bethlehem, former Ambassador of Brazil in Pakistan and Bolivia, the man whose decision had brought them to his continent, there came to meet the President a modern group of men and women ablaze with conviction. The President heard from the grandson of Mahatma Gandhi, a former Mau Mau fighter from Kenya, a former top Communist student leader from Kerala, an American educator whose experience of Moral Re-Armament had led him to give his life to Negro education in America, the son of an American Ambassador to Brazil and Peru, an Indian chieftain from Western Canada, a Nigerian nationalist, a member of the great Mitsui industrial family of Japan, a Frenchwoman who was a member of the central committee of the Socialist Party and leader of the three million Socialist women of France, and a British admiral, descendant of the Lord Cochrane who helped liberate Chile, Brazil and Peru.

The Corriere Della Sera, carrying this news to Italy, wrote: "President Janio Quadros received today a delegation of Moral Re-Armament at his residence. He gave them a cordial welcome and said, 'I have followed the activities of Moral Re-Armament now for several years. I am convinced that the world as it is today cannot survive unless men stand for the ideals for which you are fighting. The disorder in the world today—economic, social and political—is due to the fact that men have stopped being concerned about spiritual and moral forces. I have listened with deep emotion to your convictions. I want to let you know that as far as I can I will do all that is possible so that we in Brazil will understand better the moral values of our civilization.'"

"Responding to the invitation to come to the conference for Moral Re-Armament which opens in Caux, Switzerland, on June 1st, Quadros said, 'I will send a personal representative.'"

"When he learned that the Japanese play, The Tiger, was available, he telephoned to the General in charge of his Military Household and said, 'Provide all that is needed to bring The Tiger to Brasilia. Instruct the Mayor to obtain the theater, provide transport in the city and, further, have the Air Force put at their disposal so that this work can be known in city after city through all the centers of Brazil.'"

COMMUNISM CONFRONTED

General Bethlehem, describing in the press the impact of this force, writes, "For the first time on this continent Communism has been confronted with a positive alternative and for the first time it is being made to retreat. I have found a real revolution in MRA. We Brazilians are being challenged to give this to Communists, non-Communists and anti-Communists alike. Many of us have been confused through our moral compromise. I have found clarity through change. We need to wake up. The ideological war is already here. Which way Brazil goes, so goes Latin America. The situation is deadly serious. A former Minister of Foreign Affairs told me, 'Cuba has brought us to the brink of war. MRA may be the last hope. If Brazil gets it the world will get it.' The Minister of War said, 'We will do everything we can to make Brazil the capital of the answer. You have the winning idea in MRA.'"

"In the Catholic University of Sao Paulo where, it was stated, eighty percent of the students were pro-Castro, one professor-priest said, 'Since you have given your films and plays and held an assembly in our university, there have been no political demonstrations. Moral Re-Armament is being talked about everywhere.'"

"A missionary monk, who had come down from North Brazil where the Communists are training small armies and guerrilla bands in the hills, said, 'Brazil is just like Spain was before the Civil War. Can you fill my truck full of your literature so I can distribute it through all the cities up and down the Amazon?'"

"The owner of a national newspaper said to me, 'Many of us have lost faith. We have regained it again through MRA.' The president of the largest newspaper of Latin America said, 'MRA is not only an idea on the march. It is a force on the march. Our newspaper is at your disposal. Every one must be reached with this idea.'"

"The inescapable choice for Latin America," concludes General Bethlehem, "is Moral Re-Armament or Communism. We will never succeed in this fight unless we change men. We are out to clean up the nation and the world. I have committed my whole life to this fight."

General Carpenter of France, servant of his country in many campaigns and former Commander-in-Chief of the Central European Ground Forces of NATO, who flew to Brazil to join this force, spoke to a vast audience in Rio de Janeiro. "From the heart of the best men," he said, "must come this tremendous wave of Moral Re-Armament which will win over Communism. In this ideological war we must confront Communism with another ideology—that ideology is MRA. It is because I am convinced of that that I am here to conduct a war."

"We need tactics, strategy and means. Some people think that strategy can come from a meeting of men who are responsible in the political field, but I do not believe it. I have read in the newspapers for the last ten years accounts of men who meet in Washington, Paris and other great countries. But it is from all free men who fight for Moral Re-Armament that the answer will come."

FOR GOD OR AGAINST GOD

Workers and military find unity in this ideology. Damasio Cardoso, militant dockers' leader of Rio, told all his fellow-workers and their families, "I pray to God that what happened in my family will happen to every family in the docks. We are either for God or against God. The choice for all of us is MRA or Communism."

The Catholic priest in the docks, who before Cardoso's change could not enter the quarter where six hundred dockers and their families lived, added, "By their fruits ye shall know them. MRA is a tree. You can see its fruit. Moral Re-Armament has become a much more powerful weapon than any military weapons of Russia or North America. The most powerful weapon is absolute honesty, purity, unselfishness and love. I want to declare here that in me MRA has a friend, admirer and fellow worker."

That gifted artist, Louis Byles, from Jamaica, ninety miles from Cuba, speaks for many in Latin America and the Caribbean when he says, "We have very little time left." He starred in that film, The Crowning Experience, as the man who plays the part of a convicted Communist captured by the fire of a superior ideology. He has just shown this film to the leadership of his island. Said one of the government officials, "This is not a film. It is God. We must get this out immediately to Jamaica. It is exactly what we need."

It will take brave men to free, unite and save the continent of Africa. Philip Vundla, who represents 600,000 Africans in Johannesburg and was a founder of the gold miners' Union, says, "There is great bitterness in our country. South Africa is being used to divide East from West on the basis of color, but the real issue is not color but character. It is not only the white men who have to change in South Africa. We have to change too. We need it, and I wish everybody to know that."

Vundla chose the ideology that brought unity and rejected division. His choice almost cost him his life at the hands of extremists, but his steadfastness has won him the respect of friend and foe alike.

In Kenya, threatened again by bloodshed and chaos, the branch secretary of one African party faced the choice between two ideologies. He said, "I had an airplane ticket to the Communist conference of African leaders. Instead I came to the Moral Re-Armament Assembly. I did not know there were such people committed to eradicate hate, fear and selfishness. Our leaders went to the other conference with a calabash filled with the waters of freedom. The Communists punctured it, and our freedom is pouring out. MRA will seal the holes so true freedom can be maintained. I must bring the light of this answer to our country in darkness."

THE CROWNING EXPERIENCE

A woman former Mau Mau leader, detained for eight years, said, "Here my hatred of the white man has ended. We women played a big part in leading our nation in the wrong direction. Now we must play the fullest part in rebuilding the country." Calling her children to stand beside her, she said to each in turn, "Forgive me. I have been full of hate and have led you into hatred."

Another former Mau Mau district secretary said, "Bitterness has been the disease in our land. From my heart and home it spread like fire until there was bloodshed and chaos everywhere. God give us all new hearts to put right what is wrong in time."

At the recent conference for heads of African states in Monrovia, great applause greeted the special showing of The Crowning Experience. "We are your debtors," said President Tubman. "Everyone in the country must see this film." He added, "I will make every possible effort to meet Dr. Buchman in Caux this summer." Two out of the six pages in the conference edition of The Liberian Age printed the news of Moral Re-Armament, underlining the statement that "Africa can be lost in the sinking sands of the materialism of East and West. Leaders of Africa welcome Moral Re-Armament because it is the solid ground on which a hate-free, fear-free, greed-free continent can be built."

President Tubman shares the view of the Maharajah of Mysore, who said at a showing of The Crowning Experience, "The only hope for mankind is to give no quarter to the powers of evil, internal or external. Human nature is so constituted that it cannot be taken for granted that good will automatically prevail over evil in an indolent or uninterested world. It is of the utmost importance that we carry on this task of Moral Re-Armament with ceaseless vigilance. The armament of morality is invisible, but it is of matchless power, and its army includes, or should include, the whole of mankind. Let us all, both individuals and nations, enroll ourselves in this army."

From Geneva, where the fate of great portions of the Asian and African continents is being discussed at the conferences on Laos and Algeria, a Swiss editor spoke over one of Europe's most powerful radio stations, reaching millions on both sides of the Iron Curtain. He said, "Through all the confusion caused by many different meeting places, press rooms, delegation headquarters and police-bodyguards, move the men and women of Moral Re-Armament who have come down from Caux, high above the lake of Geneva, and with a very compelling sense of dedication are making available to friend and foe alike their Whitman message. This, too, speaks of overcoming difficulties in the meetings of politicians from East and West and I quote Robert Schuman's word that it was only in Caux that he found encouragement and hope."

The future of Asia may well be decided by which idea wins the Buddhist nations. Leaders from Japan, Laos, Cambodia, South Viet Nam, Thailand, Burma, Ceylon and India are convinced that Moral Re-Armament is the ideology with the answer. Buddhism has just been made the state religion of Burma. Five senior abbots from that country have come to plan at Caux for the mobilization of the Buddhist world in the ideological struggle. These revered leaders were seen off at the Rangoon airport by a hundred monks and senior officials. They have just been received in Oxford by the Warden of New College, by the Mayor of the city, and the President of the Union. They were shown the rooms in Christ Church, where this work had its beginnings forty years ago.

CONDITIONS OF SURVIVAL

This is the word of a man on his eighty-third birthday who has spent a long life up and down the world meeting and knowing men, who in 1915 paid the first of eight visits to Japan and was there the guest of those who laid the foundation of modern Japanese finance and industry, Baron Sakotane and Viscount Shibusawa, whose grandson, a minister of finance, his great-grandson, and even his great-great-grandson, are working with this force today. They come with former Prime Minister Kishi and other leading Japanese to Caux this summer to forge a unity of statesmanship among the free nations. They carry forward the work of which General Ho Ying-chin, former Prime Minister of China, says, "More unity has been created between the nations of Asia at one Moral Re-Armament assembly in the Philippines than in ten years of post-war diplomatic activity."

It is the word of a man who has known the personal friendship of Viceroys and Governors of India and of the men who opposed them, and brought them together: who knows the problems of Africa at first hand since 1929, and these statesmen of Europe and the Americas for more than fifty years. He has seen the development of two materialist ideologies and the devastation of two world wars, the retreat of freedom, and now the advance of a mighty answer.

We are facing world revolution. There are only three possibilities open to us. We can give in, and some are ready to do just that. Or we can fight it out, and that means the risk of global suicide. Or we can find a superior ideology that shows the next step ahead for the Communist and the non-Communist world alike. What we shall never do effectively is to patch things up by pretending that basic differences do not exist or do not matter; nor by supposing that an ideological challenge can be met by economic, political or military means alone. Absolute moral standards are not just questions of individual conduct today. They are the conditions of national survival. We need to scour out the dirt in our national life, our political life, our economic life, our school life, and our home life through a change in men. Wherever men give man the place in their lives that God alone should have, slavery has begun. Men must choose to be governed by God, or they condemn themselves to be ruled by tyrants."

There is no neutrality in the battle between good and evil. No nation can be saved on the cheap. It will take the best of our lives and the flower of our nations to save humanity. If we go all-out for God we will win.

"Then it is the brave man chooses,
While the coward stands aside,
Till the multitude make virtue
Of the faith they had denied."

This page, like all the action of Moral Re-Armament, is financed by the sacrificial gifts of men and women from all walks of life, determined to bring this answer to Canada and the world. # MORAL RE-ARMAMENT

Quebec Launches Serious Bid To Attract Tourists From West

(Times writer Norman Cribbens and his wife have just returned from a vacation tour of Quebec as guests of Trans-Canada Air Lines and the Quebec government. He was the trip, in a national contest for the best travel story, with his account of a 1960 vacation in the B.C. Cariboo country. In this article Cribbens gives some of his impressions of historic Quebec.)

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
The magic of old Quebec! Far below a mile-wide river like a huge sheet of grey glass. Over on the opposite shore a long low village with toy houses, many-colored in the evening mist and pricked here and there with spires and staples.

On the water a single boat. Incredibly small and white, with a faint trail of water behind it and a smudge of smoke sliding away into the west. . . . Such was my first mental snapshot of the mighty St. Lawrence, viewed from the terrace of the Chateau Frontenac—that baronial hotel which looms above the river like some medieval castle, conceived in the spirit of 18th-century France.

Behind were the narrow, tortuous streets of the old city, shadowed by grey stone buildings with gabled roofs of many colors, and little old French houses, shut-eyed against the modern world. Overhead the massive battlements of the Chateau Frontenac whose origins date back to 1647.

What a contrast between this eastern gateway to Canada, founded in 1608, and the comparatively new cities of the west. And the contrast is the more striking when you have been whisked across Canada in a few hours in a fast jet liner. . . . Because of her associations with the early French settlers, who first brought civilization to Canada, Quebec has retained much of the distinction of an Old World city. She has in fact grown old so gracefully that she has not yet obliterated the successive stages of her growth.

"Our girls have beautiful legs," said Angelo Tremblay of the Quebec government's tourist department as we trudged up the narrow rue d'Auteuil.

I agreed, but wasn't surprised. For how could a girl who exercised her calves and ankles on hills like they have in Quebec City fail to develop them?

"We have been trying to spoil Quebec City for 20 years," said former Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, whom I met on the plane from Montreal. "Thank goodness we haven't yet succeeded."

This kindly little man—a trim, well-groomed figure in his 81st year—seemed pleased that the new Liberal government in Quebec is going all out for tourist trade.

"This is more important to the economic welfare of the province," he said. "More than that, it is essential that the English and French-speaking peoples of Canada should get to know each other better."

"I hope many thousands of Canadians from western Canada will visit us and that more of our people will take their holidays in the west."

Hon. Lionel Bertrand, Quebec's tourist minister and provincial secretary of state, echoed Mr. St. Laurent's wish. He said Quebec received more than $300,000,000 from tourists in 1960 and he believed the province would take more in 1961.

"Tourism is an invaluable source of revenue to all provinces of Canada. Furthermore, it is a means of spreading knowledge and enlightenment."

M. Bertrand was much interested in British Columbia's 160-odd campsites. Quebec has only 12 so far but the government hopes to construct 30 more during the coming year, despite some protests from motorists, who fear loss of trade.

"This is a narrow view," the minister said. "Many of the people who use your B.C. campsites would not go there at all if they had to pay for accommodation. And they always spend money one way or another."

Proof of Quebec's new attitude towards tourism is a slogan they have adopted in Montreal: "Honnit soit qui mal recolt," which may be loosely translated as "Evil to him who does not treat them well."

This, of course, is a parody on the famous motto of the knightly Order of the Garter: "Evil to him who evil thinks."

NEW CANBERRA

P-O Liner Real City Afloat

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (CP) —The new Canberra is a cruise ship designed to handle about 3,200 passengers—passengers and crew—without appearing crowded.

She carries more passengers than any other ship afloat, with accommodation for 2,238, of whom 1,690 are tourist accommodations, and a crew of about 960.

But her airy public rooms, wide promenades and open deck areas give a feeling of spaciousness unusual even in a ship of 45,000 tons. This is due in part to the placement of the engines and funnels, and the fact that little room has been reserved for cargo except for the luggage and cars of passengers—many of them emigrants headed for Australia and New Zealand.

Because much of her sailing will be under sunny skies, there are large open areas with four swimming pools—one for the crew—and a wading pool for the kids, lounge chairs and deck games.

WORLD VOYAGE
The $16,000,000, Canberra, built for P and O Orient Lines by Harland and Wolff Limited at Belfast, started her three-month maiden voyage from Southampton June 2. Before reaching Vancouver July 15, she stops at Naples, Port Said, Colombo, Melbourne, Sydney, Auckland and Honolulu.

From Vancouver she sails south to San Francisco, then Honolulu, Australia, and back to Southampton Sept. 1.

Prior to the maiden voyage, the Canberra was host to 600 newspapermen, photographers, television crews, shipping experts and travel agents on a weekend trip from the River Clyde in Scotland, down the coast to Dover and Southampton. She stayed close to shore for this "show of the flag" trip and hundreds of people enjoying the sunny Whitsun holiday came out in craft of all descriptions to inspect and cheer the sleek white Canberra.

Those aboard could find little to criticize in the ship which is more a modern little city than simply a floating hotel.

OWN TV STATION
She has her own television station and studio which can bring in programs up to 150 miles away. When out of range, closed-circuit TV is used to show films, live interviews and amateur shows. There are children's playrooms complete with ship's bridge. She has 14 elevators, a hospital with two doctors and nurses in attendance, and 14 bars.

Two of the most unusual rooms—both in the tourist class—are the Pop Inn, where teen-agers are invited to rock 'n' roll, drink soft drinks and even carry their initials in the wall, and the Cricketers' Tavern, decorated with bats autographed by famous players and caps and ties donated by teams in many parts of the world.

A favorite spot in the first-class area is the Crow's Nest, which gives a magnificent frontal view through its 41 full-length windows.

The beautiful Bonito Club is on the same deck level as the main pool and terrace area and a glass partition may be lowered into the floor to allow a continuous dance surface inside and out.

Probably one of the most striking features on the Canberra is the first-class lido, with tiered balconies rising column-like on all sides. From here the less athletic types may lounge in the sun and have a full view of the activity on the games decks and at the pool.

NEW CASTLE, Del. — Well, boys and girls, you'll never believe it, but once upon a time Americans lived without television commercials, smog, or even parking meters.

Sidewalks were made of brick, there were watering troughs for horses and dogs, and homes had a section called gentlemen's quarters where the head of the house could retire in case the kids were noisy and/or the wife unmanageable.

New Castle on the Delaware was once a thriving port where travelers transferred from stage coaches to packet boats and continued journey to Washington. But progress passed it by and, unlike Wilmington and Philadelphia, it never grew up to have skyscrapers and traffic jams. It looks pretty much the way it did during the 18th century and today you can walk under the lovely maples along the street called The Strand, bordered as it is with houses put up before the Revolution.

Many travelers come to New Castle today because it is an oddity, and they stumble over the sidewalks which indeed are still made of brick. Townsfolk always walk in the street because the going is easier. Along Packet Alley, which connected the Delaware River landing with The Strand, walked such transit passengers as Andrew Jackson, David Crockett, Daniel Webster, Sam Houston and a band of Indians led by Osceola and Black on route to big pow-wow in Washington.

Still-standing on The Strand are the Gunning Bedford House built in 1730 and lived in today by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bailey; the McIntire House, which goes back to 1690, and the magnificent Read House of Mrs. Philip Laird. It was built in 1801 by George Read II, whose father signed the Declaration of Independence, and Mrs. Laird has decorated it with magnificent furnishings of the period. Her only concession to modernity is a swimming pool well-hidden in the garden and even that is a period piece, from the pre-Depression period.

At the end of The Strand a tablet marks the place at Battery Park where William Penn landed in 1682. On the site of the present churchyard on October 28 that year Penn accepted the grant awarded him by the Duke of York and was given the key to the fort and the turf, twig, soyle and water which were symbols of possession, a ceremony called "Livery of Seizin."

When Penn landed in town in 1682 New Castle was already 30 years old. It had been founded by the Dutch in 1651, who called it Fort Casimir. The Swedes who were in Wilmington didn't like the idea of the Dutch being six miles away, so they marched in three years later and renamed it Fort Trefaldighet, which they were sure was impregnable because nobody could pronounce it.

Peter Stuyvesant took it back a few years later and stayed long enough to lay out The Green or Market Place, a lovely grassy square which still remains. Great leafy elms still shade the brick path across the green where the weekly markets and fairs were held, but Peter's jail and the gallows are gone.

The British settled the argument between the Swedes and the Dutch by taking the place for themselves. They built the lovely Georgian Court House, which for 72 years before the Revolution administered the counties of New Castle, Kent and Sussex. Although it was once a tea-room the Court House has been restored as a proper English court. The old town hall, next door, with its archway leading to the green where markets were held since 1682, still houses the police department on one side and a barber shop on the other.

Yacht Typifies Luxury

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) — The Christina, one of the world's largest yachts and the home-office of Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, is a dreamboat come true. Several reporters visited her Thursday.

What other private floating palace boasts two El Greco paintings? What other yacht carries—on a relative small portion of the main deck—a sailboat, four speedboats, a five-seater seaplane and a small Italian auto?

The 325-foot former Royal Canadian Navy frigate was remodelled about eight years ago at a cost of $3,000,000.

The only thing unusual about the big outdoor swimming pool is its floor of mosaic that can be elevated to deck level.

The sleek, white beauty, named after Onassis' daughter, has been riding at anchor since April 12 in the Hudson River.

CHURCHILL WAS ABOARD
Aboard when the Christina arrived here on its first visit was Sir Winston Churchill, an old friend of Onassis. Churchill then took a plane back to England.

The craft carries a crew of 46 and quarters for 25 guests. On the ship Onassis lives exactly in the style to which he is accustomed on land. The combination of art and opulence is overwhelming. The portrait of a boy, by El Greco, hangs in the game room—a large drawing room with Louis XV and Georgian furnishings and a mantel of Lapis Lazuli mosaic.

The visitor is enchanted by the whale-teeth hand-rests on the rope-twined bar, the children's dining room with its gay murals, the leather and velvet furniture in the study, complemented by El Greco's Madonna with angel and an Italian primitive.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Even the Smallest Garden Should Have Its Nursery

By JACK BEASTALL

There are three terms which frequently appear in gardening articles, all associated with the word "nursery." They are plant nursery, nursery bed, and nursery row.

To the uninitiated their meaning may be obscure, but to the advanced gardener they have a definite place in daily vocabulary.

A nursery, as we know, is a place especially created for, and given over to, the rearing of the young, and the dictionary definition which applies horticulturally is: "A piece of ground in which young plants or trees are reared until fit for transplantation; also a collection of such plants."

A plant nursery can be a part of a large estate or a public park where young plants are grown from seed and cuttings for filling the beds and borders, or for the replacement of permanent plants which have outlived their usefulness or suffered severe damage.

A commercial plant nursery is the place where cultivated plants are propagated for sale to gardeners, and the kind of plants that are handled will be indicated by such descriptive words as alpine, perennial, shrub, aquatic, in conjunction with the word nursery.

SATISFIES NEEDS

A nursery is a vital part of every well managed garden, although it may occupy only a few square feet of space. In many gardens it amounts to nothing more than a cold frame, but it still satisfies the requirements since it is a place for rearing young plants until they are large enough to take their place in the open garden.

The nursery section of a garden differs from the open garden in that artificially created conditions are suited to the needs of plants in their younger stages. Even the smallest garden of plants has the need for, and can benefit from, a nursery section.

The nursery site needs to be well drained in all seasons, and the soil is specially prepared in the same manner as soil is prepared for use in a greenhouse. Essentially it is a mixture of loam, sand and humus (well rotted compost, very old manure or peat moss) not necessarily rich, because forced growth is not conducive to sturdy and healthy plants. Partial shading from sun in summer must be provided. Sometimes this can be the natural filtered sunlight through tree foliage, providing the trees are high and reasonably distant from the nursery area.

When directly beneath trees, the young plants become drawn and of unnatural habit, therefore artificial shading from lath trellises and covers is often to be preferred.

Shelter on the north through east is needed in winter, and on the south through west against prevailing winds in summer, but the shelter has to be sufficiently distant to permit free circulation of air through the nursery section.

The nursery bed and the nursery row are almost synonymous in the home garden. The small section becomes a prepared bed in which the plants are set out in straight rows to facilitate weeding and cultivation.

Although a cold frame may constitute the entire nursery section, it is usual to find the cold frames and the nursery bed adjacent, sometimes together with a small propagating greenhouse. Thus the cold frame, greenhouse and bed become the nursery.

EASE OF ACCESS

Convenience of location and accessibility in all weathers at all seasons of the year are important factors when selecting the site for the nursery in a home garden.

The purpose in having all the young plants in one small area is to make it easy to tend their needs, and they require the most attention during winter and spring.

The importance of a convenient, accessible location is best realized when snow starts falling at bedtime, or a spring frost strikes near midnight, and protective covers have to be erected in a hurry.

In May, the cuttings of shrubs and trees taken the previous summer and rooted in the cold frame, are moved out to rows in the nursery bed. Spring cuttings of perennials follow as soon as they have rooted.

The biennials, that is the wallflowers, Brompton stock, Canterbury bells, sweet William, lunaria (dollar plant), are sown now and moved to the nursery bed as soon as

HONOR PERFORMANCE

'Twas a 'Riot'
—Well Done
By Prisoners

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Highest praise received by any group—and a place in tonight's honor performance of the B.C. Drama Festival one-act finals was awarded the Haney Correctional Institute Players Friday night.

The play, Act I of "Lady Audley's Secret," presented as a burlesque of the heavy melodrama of the early 19th century, was a riot from start to finish.

The audience was alternately rocked with laughter or gleefully participating with hisses, for the villain, cheers and shouted warnings to "Lady Audley's" victim, she stuffed him down the well.

Complete with tiny piano, bedizened player and omnipresent prompter, this production, it is safe to say, within its genre, was better than anything seen in a local festival for years. In fact it had a professional vigor with all participants apparently having a full understanding of the technique of farce comedy.

THREE PLAYS

Mrs. Florence James of Regina, completed her three-day adjudications by announcing the honor plays: the other two are "The Devil Among the Skins," which was presented Wednesday night by the Campbell River Players, and "The Rainmaker," the folk type play by Canadian playwright Gwen Pharis Ringwood, presented by North Kamloops PTA Theatre Wing.

This entertaining program will start at 8 tonight at Oak Bay Junior High School.

Following the final curtain, Mrs. James will name the best production and winners of the Margaret Rushton Vancouver Sun Award, the Burnaby Centennial Trophy, the Hamber Trophy and Original Play Challenge Cup.

Three plays presented Friday night brought to an end the competitive part of the festival.

"The Mask," by H. M. Harwood and F. Tennyson Jesse. Presented by Fernie Little Theatre.
James Glasgow ..... Lloyd Hamilton
Vivian Glasgow ..... Joan Smith
Willie Strick ..... Lloyd Hamilton
James Glasgow (silent role) ..... Ernie Buthler
Director: Colin Morgan.

This was a fairly good play—a genuinely old-fashioned one, commented Mrs. James. She had found the performance rather slow and that it failed to build to a climax.

Joan Smith had some very nice moments in her performance, the adjudicator felt. She also considered the men had handled their dialect quite well.

"Mr. Know-All," adapted from a short story by Somerset Maugham by G. Morgan and R. Ferrie. Presented by Kitimat Players.
Mrs. Gray ..... Bob Ferrie
Mr. Ramsay ..... Guy Morgan
Mrs. Ramsay ..... Pat Munson
Mr. Kelada ..... Dave Farrell
Captain ..... Bob Bloch
Clerk ..... Lee Demill
Steward ..... Carl Casey
Director: R. Ferrie.

Credit was given the two adapters of this famous Maugham story. It was an enterprising and interesting venture, Mrs. James commented.

However it had started off slowly and remained slow. Pat Munson had done a nice job and Dave Farrell showed definite possibilities in the title role. However the slowness throughout had destroyed the play's effectiveness.

"Lady Audley's Secret" (Act I), by Miss Braddon. Presented by Haney Correctional Institute Players.
Prompter ..... Richard B. Plamatt ..... Belle Morse
Phoebe ..... Margaret D. Lyle ..... Barrie D. St. Michael ..... Carl B. Lady Audley ..... Marjorie Sudbury
Alicia Audley ..... Joyce Chevigny
Robert Audley ..... Richard C. George Talboys ..... Michael V. Peasants and Villagers:
Gladys Laine, Trudy Milne, Marion Peddingham, George P. Marcel D. Raymond S.
Director: Anthony Holland.

"This was a memorable experience in the theatre for me—watching this play tonight," Mrs. James declared.

She described the play as a "take-off" of old-fashioned melodrama and said that director and cast had taken full advantage of the opportunities provided by the script.

"I have no criticism," she told the audience who was in 100 per cent agreement to judge by the applause.

She found not one weak characterization and many

Conservatory

"perfectly marvellous" touches.

"This was real style," she concluded emphatically.

The cast included, besides inmates of the institution, social workers and citizens of Haney.

It was the first time prisoners in a Canadian jail had travelled out of their home town with a play, let alone reached the finals of a drama festival.

The cast was brought here under escort and billeted overnight at guarded barracks in Esquimalt.

Director of the play was Antony Holland, 41, who for seven years had been with the famous Bristol Old Vic Theatre school in England.

He is a counsellor for the John Howard Society and instituted a drama program at Haney to keep some of the prisoners from "withdrawing completely from society."

Attorney General Robert Bonner was in the audience and he appeared pleased at the results.

BUILDING GROUP SENDS REQUEST

'Deportation for Strikers'

TORONTO (CP)—A telegram calling for deportation of immigrant workers convicted of using violence or intimidation to support strike action against apartment and house builders, was sent Friday by the president of the Toronto Metropolitan Home Builders' Association to Immigration Minister Fairclough.

H. P. Hyatt said in the telegram that open defiance of the law should be cause for deportation.

Gerald Gallagher, secretary-treasurer of Local 183 of the International Hod Carriers' Building and Common Laborers' Union (CLC), said the builders are trying to "capitalize on the Italian immigrants' fear of deportation."

The unions Friday organized a flying squad of 60 cars carry-

ENDS SEASON — Popular Peggy Cass will wind up his regular season Wednesday night at 9 on Channels 6, 2 and 5. As is the singer's custom, he will close out with his own regulars taking over the entire show.

IN NEW COMEDY

Peggy Cass To Star With Chimps

BY VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedienne Peggy Cass, a veteran of three years on the Jack Paar Show, moves up in class next season by starring with new TV situation comedy series, Fulfilled.
Fulfilled Peggy has to make a living as an average American housewife with the help of a trio of chimpanzees. How average can you get?
"Those chimps lead a good life," she said between takes at the Columbia pictures ranch. "They live in an air-conditioned trailer right on the lot. I have to commute from the Sunset Strip."
What's more, Peggy has to perform her own stunts in the new series which, incidentally, is titled "The Howkays".
Not so the Howkays. They have a stand-in and stunt man all their own. Funny thing, he's a man and not a chimpanzee which makes him unique among Hollywood's acting fraternity.
The stand-in is a Mexican midget, Peggy said blandly. "His name is Chica Cha. He always wanted to be in show business and now he is."
Peggy already is vying with them fondly but with reservations.
"They're named Enoch, Charlie and Candy," she explained. "Candy is the baby and very lovable. Enoch is a kind of stupid but sweet. Charlie is the brains of the outfit and bosses the others around. When one of them blows a scene he raises hell with them."
"The other day I was posing for pictures with them and we were all given bananas. The chimps polished their bananas off in a second and began moving in on me."
"I threw the banana in the middle of the floor and let them scramble for it. I ain't gonna get in no fight with three primates."

Ice Extravaganza Tuesday

Peter Lawford Hosts Hour-Long Show at 10 on 5

Como Winds Up Season Wednesday; U.S. Lacrosse 7:30 P.M. Thursday

If the warm weather continues the hour-long extravaganza, "Summer on Ice," may very well prove to be next week's most popular show.
Starting at 10 on Channel 5 Tuesday night it will feature such skaters as Ronnie Robertson and Cathy Machado as well as non-skaters Peggy Lee and the Kirby Stone Four.
Peter Lawford will be host. Otherwise it is a week show. The show will feature a variety of acts, including a four-hour focus on the field hockey game between the two U.S. national teams, West Point and Annapolis.
Local viewers who feel the need of some setting up exercise should tune in on Monday night. This program will feature a half-hour of physical jokes. The program will run on a Monday-through-Friday basis on Channel 5.
Another sure sign that a glorious summer evening is ahead is that Perry Como's night-long show, "Summer on Ice," will be a minimum of four programs covering President Kennedy's trip.
MONDAY
8:30 A.M.: Channel 6: CHEK: The Flintstones go to Hollywood. TV will start its daily programming, Monday-through-Friday, with Lifestylers.
9:00: Channel 6: One With This. This will be a half-hour physical jester to be seen on Friday nights.
6:30 P.M.: Channel 4: $10,000 Bowlarama from Seattle.
7:30: Channel 6: 2: The music of Don Messer and his gang with some Topshore courtesy of the Buchta dancers.
8:00: Channel 6: 2: Danny Thomas' repeat, "You Can't Fight City Hall." This can be seen at 9 on Channel 7 also.

CONFUCIUS SAY SO?

An old Chinese saying having to do with irresolution is scrambled below:
Two in boats cannot one ride.
How quickly can you unscramble it?

SHY ABOUT AGE

Asked her age and weight, a shy young woman replied, "The sum of the two numbers is a three-figure number six times my age, which is under thirty. Figure it out for yourself."

Can you determine her age and weight in less than one minute?

CAN YOU GO 20 ROUNDS?

How quickly can you find a way of placing the numbers 1 through 19, in the 20 circles at left so that the sum of any three in a line is 30?

In case you need a starter, here's a hint: The number in the centre circle may be counted on one hand twice. Remember, numbers 1-19 inclusive are to be inserted with the total of any three in a line to be 30.

CAN YOU JUGGLE THE LETTERS?

Can you recast the letters in this sentence to form a well known proverb of seven words?
I DARE NOT ADMIT FAINT WOMEN.

RIDDLE BOX

1. What kind of nails always bend when hit with a hammer?
2. What vice can be both bad and good for you?
3. Why could Noah be called the world's first great financier?

NAME TWO STATES

Ohio is one state with four letters in its name. Can you think of two more? Easy as this may be, many will find themselves stumped by it.
Hint: both states are in the western half of the U.S.

COPPER "SENSITIVITY" TESTER

For a simply performed party trick, try this. A box and several copper pennies are required. Blindfold yourself. Place the coins in the box. Ask one of your audience to select one of the coins, and without letting you see it, pass it around for the others to inspect and memorize. Then have the coin returned to the box.
Instantly, the performer places his hand into the box and withdraws a penny —

ASK HENRY

The writer of this weekly advice is an 11-year-old boy. The advice he gives is strictly his own. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss your problem write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry:
My boy of five when he gets in bad temper he grabs the first best thing and throws it around. It is hard to stop him and it takes a while until he is back to normal. Do you think I should spank him hard?
MRS. S. R.

Dear Henry:
Don't spank your boy when he loses his temper. There are two things to do: (1) Don't give the boy reason to lose temper; (2) Get life insurance.
HENRY

Dear Henry:
My boy who is in grade two is quite a good student. Sometimes he prints well but mostly his printing is very bad. His teacher said he may have to fail unless his printing improves. How can he improve?
WORRIED MOM

Dear Henry:
Give your boy practice and help him learn to print. If a boy could fail because of printing I wouldn't be in grade six.
HENRY

Dear Henry:
We live in an apartment and have a little boy, age 3, who is very active. Our neighbors who live in the same house sometimes complain because he likes to run and jump and make noise.
We take him outside a lot but how can we keep him occupied and happy indoors without making much noise.
Have you any ideas?
Yours sincerely,
G. J. R.

Dear Henry:
I have asked my four-year-old brother what toys he likes. He likes building blocks and picture books. My brother spends hours with his blocks.
HENRY

Dear Henry:
I have a little girl who doesn't like arithmetic. When I was her age I didn't like arithmetic either. She knows this, because in a weak-minded moment I admitted it to her. What reasons can I now give her for doing her arithmetic homework?
ONE PLUS ONE

Dear One Plus One:
You don't need to give her a reason to do her arithmetic. Let her not do her homework. She will just be ashamed in front of the class and teacher. Then she will do her homework.
HENRY

Dear Henry:
When at play, my son likes to pretend he is a teacher, store keeper or gas station operator, etc. I was greatly concerned when his realistic efforts as a gas station operator prompted him to fill my gas tank from the garden hose. Can you suggest some safe occupation for him to play without expense to me?
WATERLOGGED

Dear Waterlogged:
Explain to your boy that if he fills up the tank with water the car won't move. Tell him if he is still in the gas station mood he can wash the car.
HENRY

which proves to be the one previously selected and shown.
How's it done? Remember that copper is used for soldering bits and for cooking utensils; this metal conducts heat very well, and the penny feels so warm from the handling that it may be detected at once if one's sense of touch is at all sensitive.
There's no reason, of course, why the performer can't stretch the truth a bit and attribute his "magic" touch to a sensitivity to copper.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

Which would you rather have: a half-dozen dozen dollar bills or six dozen dozen dimes?
You're better off with the dimes. The dollar bills will total $72; the dimes $86.40.
Try it on someone else and see which they'd rather have.

A LITTLE SOMETHING

What is the smallest number that can be divided by 8, 9, 10, and 12 with a remainder of 5 in each case?

Monday, June 5, meet Mr. McFarlane, special factory representative, in the BAY'S appliance department, 3rd floor. He will be pleased to answer all your queries.

The "STARFIRE" represents excellence of performance and savings backed by the Hudson's Bay Company—your best guarantee!

From start to finish, no effort has been spared in achieving this top quality product... acclaimed for its functional design, precision engineering, and lifetime materials. In addition, STARFIRE's 10-year warranty assures every owner of completely trouble-free heating throughout the years.

★ 10 Year Warranty

STARFIRE's 10-year warranty on the combustion chamber is an exclusive offer—your guarantee that this furnace is a lifetime investment.

★ Minimum of Servicing

"STARFIRE" furnaces are used at special projects in isolated areas (like the DEW Line) because they offer maximum efficiency with a minimum of servicing—your assurance of low-cost maintenance when you own a STARFIRE.

★ More Economical

The heating system—equipped for economical operation—features a Prefab Fire Brick combustion chamber that retains heat longer, and for greater economy the smoke pipe runs through the cold air compartment and preheats the air—a definite saving on the heating cost.

★ "Whisper-Quiet"

The "Whisper-Quiet" oversized blower takes a greater volume of air and operates with fewer firing vibrations. Also, the angle iron skids and rubber-mounted burner induces silent operation... no more rattling noises that startle your guests.

★ Compact in Size

The modern trend is to compactness and the "Starfire" furnace has flush sides that fit compactly in the space allotted... an asset to the decor of your rumpus room or basement.

MONTE ROBERTS

A vigilant constituent has alerted me to a potential danger lurking like an ominous cloud over the pristine purity of Beacon Hill Park.

This danger impressed the constituent as being so dangerous, he designed not to await the mailman on his appointed rounds, but gave me a ring, instantly.

Having identified himself, and being satisfied with M identification of myself, he said, in a conspiratorial whisper, "Have you seen what's going on in Lover's Lane lately?"

I hastily confessed I hadn't, not having had cause to visit Lover's Lane on legitimate lane business for so, these many years.

"There is surreptitious scheme," he said, "a cunning, well-hidden plan, to IMPROVE Lover's Lane."

"Gad, man," I cried. "Get hold of yourself. Are you sure of your facts?"

"All I know," the constituent said, darkly, "someone is removing bushes, and perhaps even cutting down trees."

"You'd better go," said the constituent, "and investigate."

"I will hasten to the task," I cried. "Naught shall detain me."

What I did not tell the constituent was, Lover's Lane in Beacon Hill Park has long been a worry to me.

This is because of the fact there are "No Parking" signs in Lover's Lane (or is it Lovers' Lane?)

"No Parking" signs anywhere in a Park seem to be an anomaly. But "No Parking" signs in Lovers' Lane (is it Lover's Lane?), I say, really, now, is that quite fair?

Thus I was eager to leap into action, obey the behest of my constituent, and investigate the surreptitious improvement to Lover's (Lovers') Lane.

And I found out that something, indeed, is taking place in the southeast corner of Beacon Hill Park.

Perceptible clearing of the underbrush is going on along the left hand side of the lane as you leave the park.

There are indications that a walk is about to be provided.

Even—perish forbid—a blacktopped walk may be in the offing.

It is well the vigilant constituent called me when he did.

It may not be too late to persuade the powers that be to install "No Walking" signs for the walk to match the "No Parking" signs for Lover's Lane.

Incidentally, you noticed I settled for Lover's, not Lovers'?

HMCS OTTAWA DOCKED FOR THE PAUSE THAT REFURBISHES

66,950-Mile Check-Up for DDE 229

By MONTE ROBERTS

One of the Royal Canadian Navy's most travelled ships is undergoing her second major refit since she was first commissioned in 1956.

The St. Laurent-Class destroyer escort HMCS Ottawa racked up a total of 66,950 miles steamed during her second commission, which started in July, 1959, ended a short time ago.

The ship is being literally torn apart and put together again at HMC Dockyard in the major "rejuvenation" project which is navy practice for all ships at intervals of about two years.

When the refit is completed, Ottawa will rejoin the fleet with a new commanding officer and largely new crew.

At the time she started her previous commission in July of 1959, her entire ship's company were new—and only four had had previous experience in the St. Laurent class of destroyer.

Her commanding officer, Cmdr. Ian Morrow, who will receive his new posting shortly, looks back on the past two years as the happiest command of his career.

During the commission period, Ottawa was at sea for 302 days out of 711—42 per cent of the time—and away from home port 388 days, or 55 per cent.

The spring cruise of 1960 took the ship away from home waters for three months, during which time intensive anti-submarine exercises were carried out across the Pacific Ocean. Pearl Harbor, Yokosuka, Okinawa, Hong Kong, Kobe and Adak were among the ports visited to provide the crew with welcome rest breaks.

Other shorter trips took the ship to Vancouver, San Diego, Long Beach, the Hawaiian ports of Pearl Harbor, Hilo and Nawiliwili, and to Prince Rupert and small harbors and anchorages on the Canadian west coast.

Operationally, Ottawa took part in major exercises "High Hat" in February, 1960, and "Upper Cut" in July, 1960.

She has participated in numerous other anti-submarine and patrol exercises with other units of the Royal Canadian Navy, and units of the United States Navy Pacific Fleet, including both atomic and conventional types of submarine, and such well-known major units as the aircraft carriers USS Yorktown, Hornet and Kearsarge.

Ottawa is scheduled to come out of refit early in August, and will rejoin the Pacific Command after trials and work-ups.

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, JUNE 3, 1961—PAGE 19

Esquimalt 'Misnomer' Federally

Use of the name Esquimalt in the federal constituency of Esquimalt-Saanich is ridiculous, says Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

Not one of the 41,070 eligible Esquimalt-Saanich voters lives within the municipality.

What's more, the misnomer has proved annoying to municipal officials who were pestered during the byelection with inquiries from residents about polling stations during Monday's voting.

CONFUSION

"We were deluged all day long," says the reeve.

Reeve Wurtele has asked Esquimalt-Saanich MP-elect George Chatterton if anything can be done about the confusion.

"We like the idea of keeping the name, but we feel the boundaries should be changed," said Mr. Wurtele.

"I think probably it is a misnomer," says Mr. Chatterton.

"But it does include a large part of the Esquimalt land district, so technically you could say it was partly correct."

The land district also gives rise to some confusion.

BOUNDARY

Its extremely jiggly boundary runs from Victoria West, which is part of the city of Victoria, through Strawberry Vale, Langford, Thetis Lake, Luxton and Triangle Hill.

The federal riding runs from Esquimalt boundary to Port San Juan, along the border of the Cowichan Lake land district and the Helmcken land district through Cobble Hill to Piers Island, and south to include almost all Saanich.

There is yet another Esquimalt, too.

PROVINCIAL VOTE

It is the provincial electoral riding. It does include municipal Esquimalt; runs up the coast past Sooke to Clooose, cuts across the northwest end of Cowichan Lake, through Cobble Hill and diagonally back to the municipal boundary.

Could the federal riding be changed?

"There will be another study of the apportionment of ridings after the next census," says Mr. Chatterton.

"It could be that a change will be recommended then."

Question: Hurry Up Or Wait?

Threat of losing a $180,000 grant for beautifying the Douglas Street approach to the city today met with mixed reaction from acting mayor Milard Mooney and Saanich Reeve George Chatterton.

Capital Improvement District Commission has informed Victoria and Saanich of a June 15 deadline to agree on what they will do with the money.

"It is too big a problem to make a decision by that time," acting mayor Mooney said.

"The commission has to know in order to get on with the job," Reeve Chatterton said. "A decision cannot be postponed indefinitely."

PARKING BAN

The CIDC proposes a landscaped dividing boulevard north from Hillside. The city felt curbside boulevards and a parking ban in the beautified area would be better.

Saanich disagreed on the parking ban on its section of Douglas, although Mr. Chatterton feels this would improve traffic flow.

City engineer James Garnett has been invited to explain the scheme to Saanich council.

"The way Mr. Garnett explained the project to the commission convinced me that we should go through with the beautification plan. I'm sure he could clear up some misunderstandings," said Reeve Chatterton.

FIVE YEARS OF studying speech arts has paid off for Lawrence Eastick, 16-year-old Grade XI student at Victoria High School, who has just been awarded a $100 drama scholarship to the Banff School of Fine Arts this summer. Now taking his Toronto Conservatory grade seven examinations in music, he won the conservatory silver medal for his grade five examinations.

MECHANICS HOLD LINE ON WAGES

Nine major Victoria auto firms and their 200 automotive workers' union employees have re-signed last year's work contract.

"We are holding the line on everything this year," a union spokesman said.

Agreement to maintain the old contract came this week after a number of bargaining sessions in which it was apparent the seven dealers and two body shops involved were in no position to grant increases.

Automotive workers rates range from $14.42-$19 for mechanic's helpers to $2.25 for journeymen mechanics and equivalent trades.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Would you please answer these questions: (1) During what years did the Labor Party hold the government in Great Britain, and (2) in what year was the present medical system started in Britain, and (3) under what government was it started? B.E.M.

A. The Labor Party formed the government of Great Britain for nine months during 1924, from 1929 to 1931, from 1945 to 1950, and from 1950 to 1951. The National Health Service came into being on July 5, 1948, thus under a Labor government.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

'Flying Fish' Backers Quit B.C. Waters

Plans to operate the high-speed hydrofoil vessel Flying Fish between here and Bellingham have been abandoned, it was announced today.

The ship made three trips between the Washington port and Harbor Marine, her agents here, but never managed to begin regular scheduled service.

"It's unfortunate that so much bad luck happened to one project," said Lieut.-Cmdr. C. A. Prosser, Harbor Marine president.

The 65-foot vessel, designed to carry 60 passengers at speeds up to 45 miles an hour, has been based in Bellingham since last August.

UNDER CONTRACT

The boat ran into bad luck on several demonstration runs and had been operating under contract to the Raytheon Company testing radar and sonar equipment until an accident late in March.

The Flying Fish damaged a foil and the hull when she hit a deadhead in the Bellingham waterway. She is now in drydock at a Bellingham shipyard.

AT PUERTO RICO

Dr. Frank A. Calderone of Hempstead, N.Y., president of the company that owns the boat, said the Flying Fish will be put into service between Puerto Rico and the Island of Vieques.

The hydrofoil operated in the West Indies before being chartered to H. M. Tiedemann and Co., New York, for the proposed Bellingham-Victoria service. It was shipped by freighter to Portland and made the run up the coast to Bellingham unaided.

INVESTORS

Seven well-known Bellingham businessmen, including Mayor John Westford, had an interest in the venture and were board members of the Hydro-Foil Operating and Development Company.

At high speeds the craft lifted clear of the water on metal "wings" which acted in the water in the same fashion as an aircraft wing in the air.

NATION-WIDE study of traffic congestion in major Canadian cities was urged today by H. T. Newell of Saint John, N.B., following his election as president of the 600,000-member Canadian Automobile Association. "This fast-growing problem calls for an intensive engineering survey," Mr. Newell said. The CAA wound up its annual meeting at the Empress Hotel with an executive committee meeting to prepare business for the coming year. The CAA will hold its 1961 meeting in Quebec City.

CANADIAN SCOTTISH HONOR DEAD

D-Day Landings Marked

By AB KENT

Memory of the many men lost by the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) in D-Day landings 17 years ago will be marked when the unit conducts a sunset and retreat ceremony at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Commanding officer Lieut.-Col. Peter Ramsay will lay a wreath on the Cenotaph at 8:30, on behalf of all ranks of the famous infantry unit.

As part of the 7th Brigade, the Canadian Scottish, Regina Rifles and Winnipeg Rifles went ashore as assault forces, British on their left, Americans on their right.

The first to hit the beach that June 6 were the men of "C" Company, commanded by Maj. Desmond Crofton, popular Salt Spring Islander, whose first target was Juno Beach, then the enemy position at Vaux, which they took.

The Scottish made their objective the next day, too—cutting the Caen-Bayeux railway.

On the third day they were hit by armor of the 12th SS Panzer Division, which smashed the Winnipeg Rifles, leaving the Scottish the only unit between the Hitler Youth unit and the sea.

Ordered to counter-attack, the Canadian Scottish, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Fred Cabeldu, had only 8-inch mortars and anti-tank guns to face the crack German unit's heavy armor, but in four hours the infantrymen had regained Putot.

Of 110 men, three officers and 26 other ranks remained.

In this action, the battalion lost nearly one-third of its strength, with 45 dead, 80 wounded.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Sacrament of confirmation was conferred on three inmates at William Head Penitentiary this afternoon by Most Rev. James M. Hill, Bishop of Victoria.

He conducted the ceremony during an official visit to the prison, and was assisted by Rev. W. J. O'Brien of Langford. He also spoke to Roman Catholic inmates at the institution.

In anticipation of a heavy berry crop, the National Employment Service has called pickers to register at the NES office, 1039 Johnson Street.

Two months' work will start about Wednesday. Sixty cents minimum will be paid per crate of eating berries, and four-cents per pound of jam berries.

Victoria Aged Pensioners' Association Inc. No. 3 will hold its monthly meeting at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Britannia Legion Hall.

Members will also be guests of the Cedar Hill Golf Club on Fridays of this month.

The last meeting until September of the Gordon Head Garden Club on Monday will feature a film on the growing of fuschias and begonias. The meeting starts at 8 p.m. in the Gordon Head Community Hall.

James Van Somer, HMCS Naden, was fined $250 and his licence suspended in Esquimalt police court today for impaired driving.

Police said he was stopped today at 12:20 a.m. after driving erratically on Admirals Road.

BURGLAR HAS MANY MUSCLES BUT LITTLE BELIEF IN SIGN

City police are looking for a thief who apparently can't read and is fond of lifting heavy weights.

A small safe, weighing 140 pounds and containing only papers, was taken from Parker Johnson Ltd. offices at 1314 Broad sometime after 9 p.m. Friday.

Entry was gained through a rear door and a till containing cash was untouched.

The safe could be opened with a turn of its handle and a sign was posted on it saying, "This safe is open and does not contain money."

Has anyone lost two ring-necked doves?

A pair was found on Michigan Street this morning and turned over to the SPCA animal shelter for safekeeping.

Brigadier Adam trophy for the best cadet in small-bore rifle competition on Vancouver Island was won this week by No. 89 (Kinsmen) Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets.

The air cadets defeated the PPCLI cadets in the small-bore rifle shoot to win the trophy for a second time. PPCLI have had it once and the two units tied once.

The Adoption Committee for Aid to Displaced Persons in Europe will meet at noon Monday in the basement of St. Andrew's Cathedral Parish Hall, 740 View Street.

Paving of Quadra between Cloverdale and Reynolds, which is being reconstructed at a cost of $140,000, will be completed Monday.

Henry Blake, superintendent of works, said today work crews will still be working in the area cleaning up various points for several weeks, but to all intents and purposes, the job is done.

Earwigs are multiplying rapidly and now is the time to wage battle against the pesky garden bugs, according to Harry Anderson, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Saanichton.

He said fish oil bait and DDT dust are recommended methods of controlling the garden pests.

The home remedy of newspapers wadded in an overturned tin can also is effective in trapping the insects.

Guilty Plea On Break-In

Arthur Kenning Sheppard, 3089 Irma, was remanded to Friday for probation report and sentence after pleading guilty in Esquimalt police court today to a charge of breaking and entering.

Police said he was arrested only minutes after a break-in at Gorge Road Coffee Shop, 1215 Tillicum, was discovered at 3 a.m.

The door had been kicked in and a quantity of candy and other food taken.

600 Congregations Want Church Union

TORONTO (CP)—Delegates from more than 600 United Church congregations called Thursday for union with the 198,881-member Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Toronto Conference of the United Church of Canada, representing more than one-third of the church's 1,016,579 members, approved without debate a resolution urging the church's general council to formally invite the Presbyterians to consider plans for a merger.

The move would heal a split created in 1925, when Methodist, Congregational and most Presbyterian churches combined to form the United Church.

No official talks on union have been held between the two churches for more than 10 years. Both are currently engaged in general discussions on unity with the Anglican Church.

A statement from the office of the Presbyterian Church's general assembly said any approach would have to be considered by its committee on inter-church relations.

New Autumn Silhouette

Beige, bulky, becoming "Heart Warmer" pullover and matching skirt modelled by Sharon Edwards. A souffle knit of wool and mohair, this turtle-neck ensemble is as light as a feather and as soft as down. (Photos by Bill Halkett)

Smart, slender, simple. A two-piece Venetian rib knit suit with a Capri collar and three-quarter sleeves. Worn by Miss Sharon Edwards, Vancouver, the rich golden shade of autumn leaves is a stunning complement to her brunette beauty.

By NONA DAMASKE
Times Fashion Editor

After seeing my first autumn fashion collection at the Empress Hotel I could not help but think how lucky we are going to be in Victoria for knits have long been dear to our hearts. And this fall knits will lead the way from dawn to dark.

Knits that stay happily at home; knits that wander the world; knits that are so comfortable you hardly know you are wearing them.

If you have never lived in knits before, you have never really lived at all.

The new knits will have a smooth countenance after sitting in a car, they will come up smiling from your suitcase, and follow every action of your body with no strain and pull.

Stretch pants, shirts, sweaters, skirts, dresses and coats were all included in the showing I attended. Costumes designed by this well-known Canadian knitwear firm were also shown for skiing, skating or curling, and they were as pretty as they were practical.

Three and four co-ordinated pieces were shown in various ways. Modest in price, high in style and rich in color, this made-in-British Columbia collection, included many slender botany knit skirts or sheath dresses with Chanel-style jackets, which are so attractive and so easy to wear.

The loose knit bulky look so popular in Europe and now coming our way, was shown in thick and thin yarns as well as shaggy mohair.

There have been times when the fashion-trend has not been particularly comfortable or suitable for our way of life. But this autumn we can be as woolly as Barron's cartoons, as fashionable as Paris and as comfortable as we like to be.

Try This Effective Killer

By PENNY SAVER

If you've discovered moss growing in the middle of your lawn you'll be interested in easy-to-use moss killer that's manufactured on the mainland. Dissolved in water, it can be sprinkled on lawns with no harm to tender grass as it contains no inert ingredients.

It's also a good thing to use when you find moss on the roof of your home. If used on the roof, it should be flushed off four days after application in order to avoid corrosion of drain pipes.

One pound of this product is sufficient for 400 square feet of lawn. It comes in a two-pound can that sells at 98 cents.

Judging by sales of ready-planted flower borders in store I was in this week, a lot of local gardeners are choosing this easy way of planting flower beds. There are over 1,000 premium annual seeds in the cellulose roll that measures 12 feet in length and is eight inches wide. Seeds include a mixture of cutting flowers such as marigolds, scabiosa, snapdragons, zinnias, petunias, calendula and cosmos.

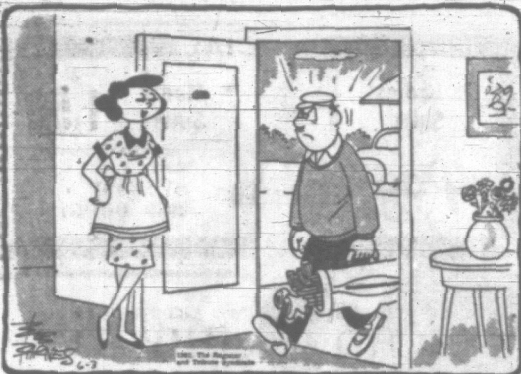

Roll can be cut to fit any contour, even on slopes. Growing care is kept to a minimum for roll protects seeds from both birds and weeds. Before planting, loosen topsoil to a depth of about four inches, place border in position and anchor with a sprinkling of soil.

Flower bed should be kept well-watered and plants will show growth within one or two weeks with flowers blooming within six to eight weeks. Pre-planted roll and package of fertilizer (to be used in original planting) sells at 98 cents.

Want To Be Beautiful?
Heed These Reminders

A few reminders of some of the simple habits which lead to good health and to good looks!

1. Take advantage of all that is now known about nutrition. Eat a well-balanced diet.

2. If you are overweight, lose those extra pounds.

3. Make some sort of daily exercise a part of your life. This should be suited to your physical condition first and to your age.

4. Get enough sleep.

5. Take a few 10-minute rest periods during the day if this is possible.

6. Give your complexion daily care with cleansing and lubrication.

7. Get outdoors as much as the weather permits. This summer take advantage of the relaxation of the outdoors.

8. Add new interests and activities to your life.

9. If you are tense at the end of the day, take a few relaxing and deep breathing exercises.

10. Most of all, enjoy life! Don't clutter it up with resentments and sensitivity and envy and fatigue and tears and hecticness and recriminations.

A big load of kindness and understanding and tolerance and a large—very large—dash of humor not only will make you well-loved by those you know, but will make life glow for you.

These are not really many suggestions, but they will be rewarding and I know they sometimes are difficult to adopt.

Want to get on the slim side for summer? Send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Nine-Day Diet booklet to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. You can lose up to 10 pounds on this quick diet.

Evraire-Valiquette
Wedding in Ottawa

Of interest to many Victorians is the recent marriage of Miss Therese Valiquette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Valiquette, Ottawa, to Lieut. Richard Evraire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Evraire, also of Ottawa.

Ferns, pink gladioli and white pompoms decorated St. Anne Church, Ottawa, for the ceremony, at which Rev. Robert Benoit officiated.

The bride wore a white, crystalite gown appliqued in pearl, with floor-length French illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of orchids and lily of the valley.

Attendants, Misses Jeannie and Cecile Valiquette, sisters of the bride, and Miss Nicole Evraire, sister of the groom, chose identical white organza gowns with pink embroidery and accessories. Best man was Lieut. Humphrey Stead, with PO Rensud Prefontaine and PO Gordon Black ushering. A military guard of honor was composed of Maj. W. Canniff, Flt. Lt. H. Desbiens, Lieut. G. Lefebvre, Lieut. M. Jette, Lieut. Y. Labossiere, and Lieut. G. Bernier.

After a honeymoon in Florida and the Bahamas, the newlyweds plan to live in Ste-Foy, Que.

DEAR ABBY

Backtrack, Boy!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I asked a girl (she is 17) to marry me, and she said yes. I am 22. She is a very good girl and I never made one wrong move toward her. We plan to get married this summer when I get my two weeks' vacation. We decided to take a drive through the Canadian Rockies. She asked me yesterday if I minded if her mother came along to help drive. I never heard of a mother going along on a honeymoon but, knowing this girl is very close to her mother (she is a widow), I said I thought it would be okay. Now I realize it is way out of line and I wonder if maybe I shouldn't tell her I changed my mind? How do I get out of this situation, please?

SPOKE TOO FAST
DEAR SPOKE: Your "bride" appears to be very young indeed. In fact, I think she is too young to leave her mother. You'd be wise to get to know her better before signing a lifelong contract.

DEAR ABBY: I have known this friend of mine for years. I got the shock of my life when she and I went shopping together. I noticed she shied away from me, and when I looked up I saw her take something off the counter and quickly slip it into a sack she was carrying. I was so frightened I got her out of that store as fast as I could. Later, when I got the chance, looked in her sack and there it was. Am I as guilty as she for not reporting her? What should I have done? Now I am afraid to go anywhere with her or even let her in my house unless I can watch her every minute. Please advise me. WORRIED STIFF

DEAR WORRIED: You did your friend a disservice by keeping quiet. She is either sick (kleptomania) and needs treatment, or she is a common thief. In any case you should have told her you saw her take the item and helped her to right the wrong.

DEAR ABBY: How does a respectable, middle-aged, childless couple make friends? We are not social climbers, but we would like to have a nice circle of friends to socialize with. My husband and I are educated people, dress well, have a lovely home and are modern in every way. But we can't seem to make friends. We have entertained people, but they never seem to invite us back. Have you any suggestions? OUT OF IT

DEAR OUT: Instead of trying to cultivate "friends"—try doing something rewarding and constructive, and friends will appear. Get active in church work, politics, a civic project or a volunteer group. The most attractive people are always found doing something for the less fortunate.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BOOK WORM: "Knowledge may give weight, but accomplishments give lustre, and many more people see than weigh." (Lord Chesterfield)

Graduation Banquet at YWCA

Candlelight and masses of flowers provided setting for annual graduation banquet of Victoria Y-Teens, held in the dining room of the YWCA building on Blanshard Street. One hundred graduates and guests attended.

Special guests were newly-elected presidents of each club, who received gavels of office in a ceremony following the banquet. They were Miss Linda Jean MacLean, Oak Bay High School; Miss Marg Garrison, Victoria; Miss Bunny Owen, Milnes Landing; Miss Kathy James, Mount View; Miss Sharon Brown, Esquimalt, and Miss Colleen Reid, Mount Douglas.

These and other special guests were introduced by mistress of ceremonies, Miss Joan Randall, inter-club president. Also presented were Miss G. P. M. Payne, guest speaker; Mrs. A. H. Sheard, president of the YW-YWCA; Mrs. J. B. MacLean, board of directors of YW-YWCA; Mrs. Phyllis Graveley, YWCA executive director; Miss Joan McKee, YWCA program director; Mrs. Jean Peel, Y-Teen director and club advisers, Mrs. S. Watson and Miss N. Jones, Victoria High; Mrs. W. M. Gage, Oak Bay; Mrs. J. Butler, Mount Douglas; Mrs. C. J. D. McCormick, Esquimalt; Mrs. A. Oliphant and Mrs. W. J. Pitre, Milnes Landing, and

Mrs. J. Draper, Mount View. Mount Douglas High School's club received a silver cup for having the best scrapbook of year's activities. Mrs. Peel, who is leaving Victoria shortly, was presented with a corsage and an inscribed bracelet by the Y-Teens. Evening concluded with a sing-song, entertainment and music played by "The Five Sharps."

Reception Marks Anniversary

Tiny red rosebuds edged a huge "diamond" that formed decor at reception in the Sooke Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilkinson to mark the couple's diamond wedding anniversary. White carnations in crystal goblets flanked the three-tier wedding cake that centred the head table. Three sons and their families, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wilkinson, and 15 grandchildren attended. Two daughters, Mrs. C. Corbett, Lumby, B.C., and Mrs. R. Rieki, Ventura, Calif., were present, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bellamy, Mr. Wilkinson's sister, came from Port Alberni. Mr. Archie McKiernon proposed the toast and telegrams were received from Queen Elizabeth II, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Premier W. A. C. Bennett. Reception guests included Mrs. McKiernon, Dr. and Mrs. E. Van Tilberg, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Henson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sullivan and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Neil.

Diplomacy At Work

VIENNA (AP)—Long-time masters of protocol, the Austrians today solved the tricky issue of where Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Khrushchev will sit at the summit's big social event.

They can sit where they please at their private villas, of course, but the government was confronted with how to place them at tonight's reception in sumptuous Schoenbrunn Palace.

Who was to sit on President Adolf Schaefer's right?

For a while this loomed as the thorniest protocol problem since the Congress of Vienna 146 years ago.

At that time, the touchy monarchs and leaders of Europe couldn't agree on who was to enter the conference room first.

When they were sulking in their royal purple, the Austrian chancellor, Prince Metternich reached a solution in a typical Austrian way.

"Knock down half that wall," he ordered, "and broaden the door to the point that they can all walk through together."

EVERYBODY HAPPY

Everybody was happy. Shoulder to shoulder and ego to ego, they walked through the expanded portal into the conference room.

This time the protocol department did not have to resort to knocking down walls which, considering the price of labor, is just as well.

The experts decided to seat Mrs. Khrushchev on Schaefer's right—at dinner.

But at the gala soiree to follow the dinner, Mrs. Kennedy will sit on his right.

The protocol department also has settled the issue of whether to serve a hot or cold dinner. It's going to be a cold one.

They abandoned the idea of a hot meal because they figured that Kennedy and Khrushchev might get into such a discussion that it could drag out to the point of ruining a warm meal.

Entertain Leaders

Topaz Avenue home of Mrs. S. Sourrah was scene of a recent social evening when the Canadian Girls in Training Mothers' Auxiliary entertained in honor of CGT leaders: Miss Ruth Adams, Mrs. G. Hagglund, Mrs. W. Harrison, Mrs. S. F. Sears, Mrs. L. Altken, Mrs. P. Chilton, Mrs. C. Kelow, Mrs. G. McPherson, Mrs. S. Hulowski, Mrs. W. Fletcher, Miss Sheila Rogers and Miss Sharon Philbrook. Games were enjoyed and a buffet supper served. Names of the leaders were inscribed on a decorated cake that centred the table. Mrs. J. P. Howell presided at the refreshment table.

Stephen Mark and Claudia Lane will be names received by the young son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Sjoberg, 1618 Hawthorne Street, at a christening ceremony in St. Luke's Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon. Maternal grandmother of the 22-month-old little boy and his seven-month-old sister is Mrs. F. J. Field. Paternal grandparents are Mrs. R. Campbell and Mr. A. Sjoberg, Melchior. Stephen's godparents are Miss Lois Field and Mr. Stanley Wedge, Vancouver. Godparents of the little girl are Miss Doris Barnsley, Miss Isabel Bescoby and Mr. Stanley Field, Vancouver. Following the ceremony, a family tea will be held at the home of the children's parents.

Weekend Gathering Of Toastmistresses

Airbus Toastmistress Club of Victoria will be hosts of the Council No. 10, Northwest region, International Toastmistress meeting, which will be held at the Chez Marcel Sunday. Meeting will be chaired by Mrs. H. Casper, Nanaimo, with Mrs. L. Lloyd, Port Alberni Valley, as installation officer.

Welcoming guests will be Mrs. F. Dearman and Mrs. T. Overgaard, president and vice-president of the hostess club. Guests will be present from Port Alberni, Qualicum Beach, Parksville, Nanaimo, Chemainus and Sidney.

A coffee party will be held at 11 a.m., followed by luncheon meeting and workshops.

Fertile Oasis City of Tripoli Presents a Cosmopolitan Life

By ANNE MAYHEW

Excitement of living in a new and rapidly developing country is an experience highly valued by Mrs. C. R. McLernon. She has spent the past four years with her family of three sons and daughter, in Tripoli, lush capital of Libya on the Mediterranean coast of North Africa.

Mrs. McLernon, a PhD in political economy from Harvard, is in Victoria to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Grove, 900 Foul Bay Road. She tells us that "Libya achieved national unity and independence only in the 1950s. It is making great strides today to take its part in the family of nations."

The Libyans converse in Arabic, although a great number in the cities have learned English as well. They are a Muslim people.

Tripoli, however, is most cosmopolitan. Apart from the Libyans themselves, there are many Italians who settled during the Italian occupation. The American air base, the British army, and the oil companies, with which Mrs. McLernon's husband is connected, bring in many nationalities.

"Besides Arabic and English, one is apt to hear in the streets all the languages of Europe," explains Mrs. McLernon.

She gives a good idea of the international spirit of Tripoli when she says that the family table often would bear, "Danish frozen milk, Swiss cheeses, New Zealand frozen lamb chops, and Louisiana frozen shrimp, not to mention the many Libyan dishes and delicious local vegetables."

As a tourist resort, Libya is opening up. There is sunny weather all year round, and the hot summer months are the only ones which would bring any degree of discomfort to a northerner.

"Recreation is marvellous," says this Canadian traveller, "and swimming, golf and tennis are especially enjoyed."

Exquisite Gown of Satin Brocade Worn by Patricia Sunderland

Classic white floor-length gown of French satin brocade, styled on Empire lines, was worn today by lovely bride, the new Mrs. Dennis Robert Pain. Circle neckline, studded with tiny seed pearls, was cut in a deep V at the back, while full panelled skirt swept back to a chapel-length train. Bouffant finger-tip veil of silk illusion net was held by a large white organza rose applied with seed pearls. Bride carried a white satin and lace covered Bible topped with dainty pink Princess roses. Only jewelry was a strand of cultured pearls, gift of the groom.

Patricia Rea, daughter of Lt.-Cmdr. S. E. F. Sunderland, RCN, and Mrs. Sunderland, 1648 Richardson Street, was united in marriage this afternoon with Dennis Robert Pain, son of Mrs. T. Otley, 107 Cook Street, and the late Mr. Harry Pain.

Metropolitan United Church was decorated with masses of flowers in shades of pink, with candelabra flanking the altar for a double-ring service. Pews were marked with white satin bows. Dr. F. E. H. James officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and soloist, Miss Carole James, sang "The Wedding Prayer" during signing of the register.

Maid-of-honor, Miss Judy Newport, and senior bridesmaid, Miss Judie Hanson, wore identical gowns of flamingo pink organza over taffeta that featured wide sheared cummerbunds en tone. Both carried colonial bouquets of gladioli and carnations in shades of pink. Junior bridesmaids, the Misses Joan Garnett and Black-maned lions headline act.

SHRINE CIRCUS BOAST: 'BIGGER THAN BIG TOP'

Acrobats, jugglers, elephants and lions—the circus is coming to town.

Claiming to be "too big for a big top," the Shrine Circus will install itself in the Memorial Arena on Tuesday for two days, offering shows twice daily.

Besides the usual complement of jugglers and wirewalkers, there will be Prince El Kigordo and his troupe of black-maned African lions, Althoff's elephants, and plenty of clowns.

The circus has been arranged by the Victoria Shriners in conjunction with the circus owners, and all proceeds will go to Shrine charities.

Council Session On Wage Award

LIBRARY BOOK OVERDUE BY 129 YEARS

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—A book was returned to the public library Friday—129 years overdue.

John Bullard reported he found it in the library of Mrs. Bullard's great-grandfather, Tenry Crapo, plainly marked that it belonged to the public library. The book was Volume One of John Winthrop's History of New England from 1630 to 1649.

City librarian James Healey computed the overdue penalty at $750, but cancelled it.

"It's a dreadfully dull book," he said.

1,000 Members By Year's End Skaters' Target

Victoria Figure Skating Club is "shooting" for a membership of 1,000 by the end of the year.

The club has 700 members now and looks to the July opening of Esquimalt's new arena as the means to its 1,000-membership end.

Annual meeting of the club was held at the Curling Rink this week when plans for a July 1 "open house" at the new Esquimalt rink were discussed and the following officers elected:

Mrs. Denis Humphries, president; Mr. R. Meeres, vice-president; Miss L. Warne, secretary; and C. Thomas, treasurer. Mrs. Mary Saville, Miss Eve Lettice, Miss Gail Buckle, Miss Ev. DeKelver, Mr. D. Doidge, W. McDonald and B. Svetnam, one-year-term directors.

300 Forest Fires Since May 1; Costs Higher

Forest fire damage is now ahead of last year's for the first time since the danger season opened May 1 in B.C.

Weekly report of the government's Forest Service today tallied 300 blazes so far this season, compared with 287 at this time in 1960.

Cost of fighting the fires is $60,000, compared with only $24,763 at the same time last year.

There were 75 new fires this week in B.C., while 96 were put out. This week's costs totalled $22,150.

Fire hazard in the Vancouver district, which includes the Island, remains low to moderate. So far only $300 has been spent on 23 small blazes.

Hazard in the Prince Rupert district is also low to moderate. In the Kamloops and Nelson districts it is moderate.

Juveniles Arrested After Long Stakeout

A patient stake-out by Saanich police Friday netted four juvenile break-in artists.

The four, all between 12 and 15 years, entered guilty pleas in juvenile court the same day to charges of "breaking and entering, attempted breaking and entering and theft."

They were arrested after a detective on patrol noticed a smashed rear window at Siegg Bros. Hardware in the Shelbourne Plaza about 11 p.m. and called for assistance.

Aldermen may meet in special session next week to deal with a unanimous conciliation report awarding 240 city outside staff workers a wage increase and other benefits.

Details of the report were not disclosed, but Acting Mayor Millard Mooney said "a small wage increase" is recommended.

"The report was just put on my desk Friday afternoon and I have not had time to look into it thoroughly," he said.

"I don't wish to comment until it reaches council."

The report was signed by chairman William Stone, city nominee Archie Wills and union nominee W. G. Gauld.

It was understood the amount of the wage increase was less than the 5 per cent asked by the outside workers' union.

Existing wage rates range up from $1.87 to $2.30 an hour, covering all outside categories such as truck drivers, parkmen, garbage men and public works men.

Gonzaga Degree To Former St. Louis Student

Alan John McCall, a 1956 graduate of St. Louis College, was one of 12 Canadian students among the 342 who received degrees from Gonzaga University, Spokane, during commencement exercises last Sunday.

Mr. McCall received a Bachelor of Arts degree after majoring in English. After leaving St. Louis College here, he studied at Notre Dame before going to Gonzaga University.

The commencement exercises took place in the Spokane Coliseum and the principal speaker was Frank J. Sheed of the publishing house of Sheed and Ward, New York and London.

Leo Labelle Petty of Nelson, a 1957 graduate of Vancouver College, received a Bachelor of Education degree. He won scholarships to Gonzaga University.

RCMP Probe Navy Charity Fund Losses

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP has been called in to investigate a suspected shortage of Community Chest funds collected in fund drives within the naval department.

"The navy has completed its own investigation and has turned over all information to the RCMP," a spokesman said.

Approximately $1,800 is believed involved in the shortages in drives at navy headquarters here by the Community Chest in 1959-60 and 1960-61.

Detectives, uniformed police and juvenile officers waited until 7:50 a.m. when the boys returned to get the loot.

They also admitted to breaking into nearby McKenzie TV and one was charged with a previous entering of Siegg's May 29.

Value of the loot, which was almost all recovered, was about $400. All four are under remand for probation report and sentence.

Civic Workers Return to Jobs

NEW WESTMINSTER—More than 400 municipal workers in nearby Surrey Municipality who walked off their jobs May 25 were to return to work today.

In a settlement reached late Friday, the inside and outside workers were granted an immediate, five-cent hourly increase retroactive to Jan. 1 and a further two-cent increase July 1.

Also implemented were fringe benefit recommendations of a conciliation board report.

The new wage, that asked by the municipal workers, will be $1.80 an hour.

Garage, intended for more than a week in sultry weather, will be picked up today.

NELSON TO EXPAND

NELSON—Nelson property owners voted overwhelmingly in favor of extending the city boundaries Friday.

A total of 1,210 voted yes, 182 no, a favorable margin of 86 per cent. A three-fifths majority was required.

The three districts to be incorporated into the city had already voted by petition to join the city. These areas will add 650 acres to the city, increasing it to 1,400 acres and boosting the population from 7,500 to 10,000.

LD DIAL PHONING

VANCOUVER—Some 200,000 B.C. Telephone Company subscribers in the Lower Mainland will be able to dial their own long distance calls Monday. A $1,000,000 distance direct dialing installation here will serve Vancouver, North and West Vancouver, Richmond, Port Moody and Ladner.

CRIME INCREASES

VANCOUVER—Chief George Archer of city police said in his annual report Friday Vancouver has experienced a general increase in serious crime, but bank robberies have gone out of fashion.

Chief Archer credited the new bank alarm system put into effect several years ago with the decline in popularity of bank robbery as a criminal profession.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR JET PILOT

COURTENAY—Funeral was held at Holy Martyr's Church here today at 10 a.m. for Garry Colombo, 19, RCAF trainee pilot who died Tuesday after bailing out of a T-33 jet trainer at Portage La Prairie.

He was making his third solo flight when he bailed out. Injured on landing, he died in hospital six hours later.

Born in Cumberland, he was graduated from Cumberland High School in 1959, and joined the RCAF last year.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hector Colombo, and a sister, Jill, in Cumberland.

seven-year sentence for drug trafficking was released Friday following a new trial in County Court.

Leslie Haftor, 30, was acquitted by Judge W. A. Schultz on grounds that new evidence showed there was reasonable doubt as to the identification of the accused as a man who was seen by police to throw a package containing drugs from a moving car.

DENTAL HEALTH PLAN

VANCOUVER—Bert Price, Social Credit MLA for Vancouver Burrard, said Friday night denturists will play an important part in any national health scheme.

Mr. Price told the annual convention of the Public Denturists Society of British Columbia it is evident that the dental profession will not be able to cope with all the demand for dental services which would be experienced under such a plan.

David Matthews was elected president; Edward Hossack, vice-president; Larry Lewis second vice-president; George Connolly, secretary, and James Babalos, treasurer.

GRAIN CAPACITY

VANCOUVER—Transport Minister Balcer said Friday his department is making broad plans for expansion and improvement of grain loading facilities in the port of Vancouver.

The minister said money has been set aside for reconstruction of the United Grain Growers pier, talks are in progress with the grain trade on expansion of elevator capacity and a survey is to be made of rail facilities with a view to speeding unloading of cars.

CHOIR TO TOUR

VANCOUVER—The 30-member Elgar choir of British Columbia will leave June 17 for a European tour which will include visits to Russia, France, Germany, Italy, Switzerland and Austria.

The group, which comprises 26 girls and four boys, all between 11 and 18 years old, will give concerts in the Moscow area between July 10 and 16. Other engagements are in Paris, Mannheim, Berlin, Vienna, Zurich and Rome.

Civic Officials Here on Monday

About 200 municipal officials from across B.C. will meet in Victoria Monday.

The 22nd annual conference of the Municipal Officers' Association of B.C. will be held at the Empress Hotel.

Victoria Mayor Percy Scragg will open proceedings with a welcoming address.

The delegates will include clerks, comptrollers, treasurers and assessors.

Accomplice Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Seaman Harry T. Rhodes was sentenced to two years less a day Thursday for planning the getaway for two gunmen who staged an $11,000 robbery last fall at the Hotel Georgia.

Ganges Ratepayers Divide On Establishing Marina

GANGES — Residents voted 21-17 this week in favor of an application by garage owner Arthur Young for a harbor foreshore lease for establishment of a marina.

The lively meeting was called by Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce at the request of the Provincial Lands Department. The vote was restricted to ratepayers and is not binding, but will be used by the department as a guide.

Mr. Young showed a plan of the marina, to be built on a fill to extend 500 feet beyond his present lease at the rear of his garage.

He said it would bring an estimated expenditure of $100,000 to the area, and would mean a payroll of $18,000 or more annually. It also would protect the adjacent beach from prevailing winds, he said, and would make an excellent potential area for bathing and other water sports.

He can finance the project without difficulty, he said. When he invited objections, Captain V. C. Best claimed the idea was impractical, would be useless at low tide, would interfere with drainage in a nearby stream, and was not necessary because there are enough marinas on island now.

W. T. D. Jones complained that the creek already had been diverted 25 feet in his direction, and that the marina would mean still more debris on his property.

Major Z. W. Kropinski questioned Mr. Young's ability to finance the project, saying the government had estimated $100,000 would not build a boat basin, and complained of the sewage problem.

Mr. Young replied that with no marina at Ganges, boats stopping at the government wharf leave shortly after because of lack of facilities. "A marina is bound to come in Ganges," he said, "and if it is not built by local effort it will be done by outsiders."

C. R. Horel, chamber president, was chairman at the meeting.

LEGION VOTES DOWN COCKTAILS

NANAIMO (CP)—A move to establish a cocktail bar and sell beer by the glass at the Nanaimo Branch 10 of the Royal Canadian Legion was soundly defeated by the membership Thursday.

NANAIMO (CP)—George Muir, former mayor of Nanaimo, resigned Thursday as president of Nanaimo Branch 10 of the Royal Canadian Legion, hinting one of the reasons was dissension between opposing membership groups.

'Nice to See You' JFK Tells Nikita

Friendly Air As Talks Open

VIENNA (Reuters)—President Kennedy and Nikita Khrushchev today discussed at length the problems of Laos and the International Control Commission in Laos, it was officially announced tonight.

(CP From AP-Reuters)

VIENNA—President Kennedy met for more than six hours with Soviet Premier Khrushchev here today in what conference officials described as a "good" atmosphere.

The talks lasted nearly an hour longer than originally scheduled and everything indicated the two men had got along well in their history-making meeting.

One authoritative conference source said the atmosphere was good and another stressed the cordiality between Kennedy and Khrushchev.

The two leaders met early in the day, then had lunch together and another meeting after the meal. In this last meeting of the day they were alone except for their interpreters.

The liveliness of their discussion was evident from a glimpse of the two men when they stepped out into the garden of the U.S. Embassy residence, the site of their talks, for a brief breath of the cool Austrian air.

The two were talking with marked animation. Both were gesturing vigorously with their hands, and both the 66-

year-old Soviet veteran of diplomatic wars and the 44-year-old newcomer to the battleground of cold war diplomacy seemed in deadly earnest.

Kennedy flew here from a visit to Paris, where three days of talks with President Charles de Gaulle appeared to have strengthened his hand for these critical discussions with the Kremlin leader.

The first meeting of the U.S. and Soviet leaders was at the home of U.S. Ambassador H. Freeman Matthews in the Vienna outskirts.

As Khrushchev arrived Kennedy bounded down the steps of the residence, thrust out his hand and said: "It's nice to see you."

The president introduced U.S. ambassador to Moscow Llewellyn Thompson to the Russian leader as "our ambassador."

Khrushchev smiled and replied: "He is our ambassador too."

Khrushchev appeared a little subdued and Kennedy tugged nervously at his suit. But the Russian leader's customary gusto returned when Kennedy asked if it was all right if they shook hands again for photographers.

Khrushchev thrust out his hand with a big flourish to the president.

Their initial discussions lasted 75 minutes, delaying the start of their lunch together for a half hour.

They continued their talks over lunch and then retired to the music room again for more discussions.

Top advisers, including State Secretary Dean Rusk and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, waited in adjoining rooms for any summons from their leaders.

Kennedy had flown into Vienna two hours earlier from Paris. He told Austrian President Adolf Schaerf he had come to Vienna for "this most important occasion in an effort to improve the prospects for more general understandings between people."

The president received a more warm-hearted welcome from crowds lining his route into the city from the airport than the one accorded Khrushchev when he arrived here by train Friday night.

IT'S GREAT IN GREAT OUTDOORS

If fishermen, golfers, tennis players, and gardeners had created the weekend weather they couldn't have improved on the menu provided by weatherman William Mackie.

"This evening and Sunday will be mostly sunny," he said. "Temperatures are a little cooler, but we'll have a maximum of 75 degrees Sunday, and westerly winds up to 20 miles Sunday afternoon."

Crack U.S. Jet Bomber Crashes

PARIS (Reuters) — The supersonic U.S. jet B-58 bomber that flashed across the Atlantic in record time last week crashed near here today.

The four-engine plane, taking part in an air show, had made two spectacular passes above spectators before it went down in a nearby field.

All three men aboard were killed. The French news agency said they were not the same men who piloted the craft from the United States on its record-smashing trip.

The bomber, called the Hustler, made its record-breaking flight across the Atlantic May 26 in three hours, 19 minutes, 41 seconds.

Grad-Night Crash Kills Two Youths

AGASSIZ (CP) — A car carrying six high school students to a graduation dance crashed into a power pole Friday night killing two boys and critically injuring a third. Dead are Alan McCallum, 16, Harrison Mills, and Dick Mellin, 15. Agassiz. Unconscious and in serious condition is Garrett Whorley, 18, of Agassiz.

SHOT DEAD

IWA FACTION WILL OPPOSE NEW CONTRACT

VANCOUVER (CP) — A faction within the International Woodworkers of America will oppose a no-wage-increase agreement reached between the union's negotiating committee and coast lumber operators.

Syd Thompson, president of the 6,000-member local 1-217 here, said his executive is unanimous in denouncing the settlement reached Thursday with Forest Industrial Relations, spokesmen for the operators.

The agreement calls for the same wages for most of the union's 27,000 coast members in a one-year contract that gives them a health and welfare plan, an extra paid holiday and other fringe benefits.

Thompson said the settlement is "absolutely unsatisfactory at a time when the lumber business is booming."

Acid Thrown In Face Of B.C. Man

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Sulphuric acid was thrown into the face of a 43-year-old man early today as he took a lady home.

Police and hospital authorities said Frank Beckley suffered second degree burns to his face, head and chest when acid was thrown into his face in the garden of Mrs. Germaine Robinson, 44.

Mrs. Robinson suffered second degree burns to the back of her neck.

One report said Beckley may be scarred for life but hospital authorities and police refuse to confirm this. But his eyes were not hurt, they said.

Police would give no reason for the attack but say they are seeking a suspect.

They said Beckley and Mrs. Robinson drove up Mrs. Robinson's driveway. They got out of the car and walked toward the house when a man appeared and threw the acid.

The man then jumped into Beckley's car and drove away.

KAMLOOPS (CP) — One man is missing and two others were rescued from the swirling Thompson River early today when all three jumped from a bridge to escape an approaching train.

Police said the incident happened shortly before 6 a.m. as the trio was using the railway trestle bridge as a short cut.

The CNR train, approaching from a junction four miles north of the city, apparently panicked the men and they jumped into the Thompson, now at a high spring level.

Two of the men were helped to shore by police, the third vanished. Names were not released.

Korea Junta Chief Due to Step Down?

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A reliable civilian source said today that Lt. Gen. Do Yung-Chang is to be replaced at the top of South Korea's new military junta.

The report said Chang would keep the premiership but would be succeeded as chairman of the powerful 32-man junta by the present vice-chairman—Maj. Gen. Chung Hi Park.

Park, 45, has generally been considered the chief engineer of the May 16 coup that brought down John Chang's elected government.

The report was denied by an information ministry aide, who called it a rumor "detrimental to the revolutionary task of the military government."

HOW DID IT FEEL? 'NOTHING AT ALL'

Woman Tells of 'Dying' Five Times

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — How does it feel to die?

"There's nothing at all but a completely black feeling of void. I had a feeling of falling through vacant space. But I was not aware of the fact that I was dying."

The speaker was 21-year-old Mrs. Anne-Maj Olausson, now a healthy housewife and mother of Gaellivare, one of Sweden's northernmost cities, 50 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

But on April 13, Anne-Maj Olausson apparently died five times. She stopped breathing. Her heart stopped beating. She seemed dead.

But each time she was brought back to life by a 34-year-old Swedish doctor, Bengt Koerlof, using external heart massage.

Mrs. Olausson's five deaths came 10 days after she gave birth to her first child. As she was walking down the Gaellivare hospital stairs to go home, she suddenly collapsed, seemingly dead.

During the examination by Dr. Koerlof, Mrs. Olausson apparently stopped living four more times. Each time the doctor brought her back to life.

Mrs. Olausson said today she remembers very little from that nearly-fatal day.

"I felt some pains in my chest," she said, "but did not realize that these were the moments the doctor was bringing me back to life."

To Run Again?

SCURRAH HEADS CANADA MAYORS

An indication that Mayor Percy B. Scurrah will be candidate again in December for the chief magistracy's post was contained today in a dispatch from Halifax.

Mayor Scurrah has been elected to, and accepted, the post of president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, the top honor for a municipal leader in Canada.

Mr. Scurrah has been mayor of Victoria since January, 1956, and there has been some talk at city hall he would retire when his present two-year term ends in December.

However, city hall observers today suggested if he had intended to retire he would not have accepted the federation post. They also pointed out that next year is the city's centenary which would mark a fitting climax to his career.

His election came at the final session of the federation's four-day conference in Halifax.

MONTE ROBERTS

A vigilant constituent has alerted me to a potential danger lurking like an ominous cloud over the pristine purity of Beacon Hill Park.

This danger impressed the constituent as being so dangerous, he designed not to wait the mailman on his appointed rounds, but gave me a ring, instant.

Having identified himself, and being satisfied with identification of myself, he said, in a conspiratorial whisper, "Have you seen what's going on in Lover's Lane lately?"

I hastily confessed I hadn't, not having had cause to visit Lover's Lane on legitimate lane business for so, these many years.

"There is surepicious scheme," he said, "a cunning, well-hidden plan, to IMPROVE Lover's Lane."

"Gad, man," I cried, "Get hold of yourself. Are you sure of your facts?"

"All I know," the constituent said, darkly, "someone is removing bushes, and perhaps even cutting down trees."

"You'd better go," said the constituent, "and investigate."

"I will hasten to the task," I cried. "Naught shall detain me."

What I did not tell the constituent was, Lover's Lane in Beacon Hill Park has long been a worry to me. This is because of the fact there are "No Parking" signs in Lover's Lane (or is it Lover's Lane?).

"No Parking" signs anywhere in a Park seem to be an anomaly. But "No Parking" signs in Lover's Lane (is it Lover's Lane?), I say, really, now, is that quite fair?

Thus I was eager to leap into action, obey the behest of my constituent, and investigate the surepicious improvement to Lover's (Lovers?) Lane.

And I found out that something, indeed, is taking place in the southeast corner of Beacon Hill Park.

Perceptible clearing of the underbrush is going on along the left hand side of the lane as you leave the park.

There are indications that a walk is about to be provided.

Even—perish forbid—a blacktopped walk may be in the offing.

It is well the vigilant constituent called me when he did.

It may not be too late to persuade the powers that be instal "No Walking" signs for the walk to match the "No Parking" signs for Lover's Lane.

Incidentally, you noticed I settled for Lover's, not Lovers?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Sacrament of confirmation was conferred on three inmates at William Head Penitentiary this afternoon by Most Rev. James M. Hill, Bishop of Victoria.

He conducted the ceremony during an official visit to the prison, and was assisted by Rev. W. J. O'Brien of Langford. He also spoke to Roman Catholic inmates at the institution.

In anticipation of a heavy berry crop, the National Employment Service has called pickers to register at the NES office, 1039 Johnson Street.

Two months' work will start about Wednesday. Sixty cents minimum will be paid per crate of eating berries, and four cents per pound of jam berries.

Victoria Aged Pensioners' Association Inc. No. 3 will hold its monthly meeting at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Britannia Legion Hall.

Members will also be guests of the Cedar Hill Golf Club on Fridays of this month.

The last meeting until September of the Gordon Head Garden Club on Monday will feature a film on the growing of fuchsias and begonias.

The meeting starts at 8 p.m. in the Gordon Head Community Hall.

James Van Son, HMCS Naden, was fined $250 and his licence suspended in Esquimalt police court today for impaired driving.

Police said he was stopped today at 12:20 a.m. after driving erratically on Admirals Road.

HMCS OTTAWA DOCKED FOR THE PAUSE THAT REFURBISHES

66,950-Mile Check-Up for DDE 229

By MONTE ROBERTS

One of the Royal Canadian Navy's most travelled ships is undergoing her second major refit since she was first commissioned in 1956.

The St. Laurent-Class destroyer escort HMCS Ottawa racked up a total of 66,950 miles steamed during her second commission, which started in July, 1959, ended a short time ago.

The ship is being literally torn apart and put together again at HMC Dockyard in the major "rejuvenation" project which is navy practice for all ships at intervals of about two years.

When the refit is completed, Ottawa will rejoin the fleet with a new commanding officer and largely new crew.

At the time she started her previous commission in July of 1959, her entire ship's company were new—and only four had had previous experience in the St. Laurent class of destroyer.

Her commanding officer, Cmdr. Ian Morrow, who will receive his new posting shortly, looks back on the past two years as the happiest command of his career.

During the commission period, Ottawa was at sea for 302 days out of 711—42 per cent of the time—and away from home port 388 days, or 55 per cent.

The spring cruise of 1960 took the ship away from home waters for three months, during which time intensive anti-submarine exercises were carried out across the Pacific Ocean, Pearl Harbor, Yokosuka, Okinawa, Hong Kong, Kobe and Adak were among the ports visited to provide the crew with welcome rest breaks.

Other shorter trips took the ship to Vancouver, San Diego, Long Beach, the Hawaiian ports of Pearl Harbor, Hilo and Nawiliwili, and to Prince Rupert and small harbors and anchorages on the Canadian west coast.

Operationally, Ottawa took part in major exercises "High Hat" in February, 1960, and "Upper Cut" in July, 1960.

She has participated in numerous other anti-submarine and patrol exercises with other units of the Royal Canadian Navy, and units of the United States Navy Pacific Fleet, including both atomic and conventional types of submarine, and such well-known major units as the aircraft carriers USS Yorktown, Hornet and Kearsarge.

Ottawa is scheduled to come out of refit early in August, and will rejoin the Pacific Command after trails and work-ups.

Esquimalt Misnomer Federally

Use of the name Esquimalt in the federal constituency of Esquimalt-Saanich is ridiculous, says Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

Not one of the 41,070 eligible Esquimalt-Saanich voters lives within the municipality.

What's more, the misnomer has proved annoying to municipal officials who were pestered during the byelection with inquiries from residents about polling stations during Monday's voting.

CONFUSION
"We were deluged all day long," says the reeve.

Reeve Wurtele has asked Esquimalt-Saanich MP-elect George Chatterton if anything can be done about the confusion.

"We like the idea of keeping the name, but we feel the boundaries should be changed," said Mr. Wurtele.

"I think probably it is a misnomer," says Mr. Chatterton.

"But it does include a large part of the Esquimalt land district, so technically you could say it was partly correct."

The land district also gives rise to some confusion.

BOUNDARY

Its extremely jiggly boundary runs from Victoria West, which is part of the city of Victoria, through Strawberry Vale, Langford, Thetis Lake, Luxton and Triangle Hill.

The federal riding runs from Esquimalt boundary to Port San Juan, along the border of the Cowichan Lake land district and the Helmcken land district through Cobble Hill to Piers Island, and south to include almost all Saanich.

There is yet another Esquimalt, too.

PROVINCIAL VOTE

It is the provincial electoral riding. It does include municipal Esquimalt; runs up the coast past Sooke to Clo-oose, cuts across the northwest end of Cowichan Lake, through Cobble Hill and diagonally back to the municipal boundary.

Could the federal riding be changed?

"There will be another study of the apportionment of ridings after the next census," says Mr. Chatterton.

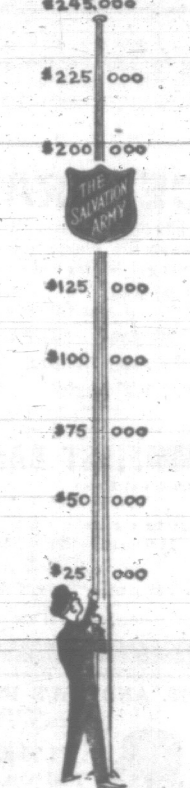

"It could be that a change will be recommended then."

Sally Ann Fund Drive Extended

Extension of the Salvation Army's general campaign for Matson Sunset Lodge and Red Shield services was agreed upon Friday to allow late returns to come in.

The fund stands at $200,000, or $45,000 short of the goal needed to build the new home for aged citizens and conduct annual Army services.

To date, however, the two main groups in the campaign are well toward their percentage targets.

The advance and special names group has 94 per cent of its objective and the residential canvass has 76 per cent.

It is pointed out by the campaign directors that no house-to-house canvass is being made, but citizens are contacted by letter and telephone.

Those who have been overlooked, or who have neglected to send in their forms, are urged to do so as soon as possible in order that the drive may be concluded.

In announcing the extension, general chairman Stuart Keate said:

"We intend to stick with it until our target is reached. The public has responded warmly to our campaign, and the 1,000 volunteer workers have done a splendid job."

"However, a number of returns have been delayed because of late payrolls, absence from the city and so on."

"Of the 40,000 mailing pieces sent out to individual homes in Greater Victoria, only 2,000 have been returned."

Other percentages listed by Mr. Keate were civil and public services, 17 per cent; professional, 16 per cent; employees, 10 per cent; industrial-commercial, 9 per cent.

Special mention was made of $1,003 sent in by DVA Hospital, where the target was $1,000 and collections are still being made.

E. C. Warner, of Growers' Wine, which gave $1,500, said: "I've always had a soft spot in my heart for the Sally Ann. They deserve success in this campaign."

Tribute was paid by Harold Husband, a campaign director, to the late Ed Rowebottom, a team captain, when members of the campaign stood in silent memory of him.

"He was a fine citizen who contributed a great deal of enthusiasm to this and many other campaigns in Greater Victoria."

Guilty Plea On Break-In
Arthur Kenning Sheppard, 3089 Irma, was remanded to Friday for probation report and sentence after pleading guilty in Esquimalt police court today to a charge of breaking and entering.

Police said he was arrested only minutes after a break-in at Gorge Road Coffee Shop, 1215 Tillicum, was discovered at 3 a.m.

The door had been kicked in and a quantity of candy and other food taken.

$180,000 STAKE

Question: Hurry Up Or Wait?

Threat of losing a $180,000 grant for beautifying the Douglas Street approach to the city today met with mixed reaction from acting mayor Millard Mooney and Saanich Reeve George Chatterton.

Capital Improvement District Commission has informed Victoria and Saanich of a June 15 deadline to agree on what they will do with the money.

"It is too big a problem to make a decision by that time," acting mayor Mooney said.

"The commission has to know in order to get on with the job," Reeve Chatterton said. "A decision cannot be postponed indefinitely."

PARKING BAN

The CIDC proposes a landscaped dividing boulevard north from Hillside. The city felt curbside boulevards and a parking ban in the beautified area would be better.

Saanich disagreed on the parking ban on its section of Douglas, although Mr. Chatterton feels this would improve traffic flow.

City engineer James Garnett has been invited to explain the scheme to Saanich council.

"The way Mr. Garnett explained the project to the commission convinced me that we should go through with the beautification plan. I'm sure he could clear up some misunderstandings," said Reeve Chatterton.

FIVE YEARS OF studying speech arts has paid off for Lawrence Eastick, 16-year-old Grade XI student at Victoria High School, who has just been awarded a $100 drama scholarship to the Banff School of Fine Arts this summer. ### MECHANICS HOLD LINE ON WAGES

Nine major Victoria auto firms and their 200 automotive workers' union employees have re-signed last year's work contract.

"We are holding the line on everything this year," a union spokesman said.

Agreement to maintain the old contract came this week after a number of bargaining sessions in which it was apparent the seven dealers and two body shops involved were in no position to grant increases.

Automotive workers rates range from $14.25-$18.00 for mechanic's helpers to $2.25 for journeymen mechanics and equivalent trades.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Would you please answer these questions: (1) During what years did the Labor Party hold the government in Great Britain, and (2) in what year was the present medical system started in Britain, and (3) under what government was it started? B.E.M.

A. The Labor Party formed the government of Great Britain for nine months during 1924, from 1929 to 1931, from 1945 to 1950, and from 1950 to 1951. The National Health Service came into being on July 5, 1948, thus under a Labor government.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

'Flying Fish' Backers Quit B.C. Waters

Plans to operate the high-speed hydrofoil vessel Flying Fish between here and Bellingham have been abandoned, it was announced today.

The ship made three trips between the Washington port and Harbor Marine, her agents here, but never managed to begin regular scheduled service.

"It's unfortunate that so much bad luck happened to one project," said Lieut.-Cmdr. C. A. Prosser, Harbor Marine president.

The 65-foot vessel, designed to carry 60 passengers at speeds up to 45 miles an hour, has been based in Bellingham since last August.

UNDER CONTRACT

The boat ran into bad luck on several demonstration runs and had been operating under contract to the Raytheon Company testing radar and sonar equipment until an accident late in March.

The Flying Fish damaged a foil and the hull when she hit a deadhead in the Bellingham waterway. She is now in drydock at a Bellingham shipyard.

AT PUERTO RICO

Dr. Frank A. Calderone of Hempstead, N.Y., president of the company that owns the boat, said the Flying Fish will be put into service between Puerto Rico and the Island of Vieques.

The hydrofoil operated in the West Indies before being chartered to H. M. Tiedemann and Co., New York, for the proposed Bellingham-Victoria service. It was shipped by freighter to Portland and made the run up the coast to Bellingham unaided.

INVESTORS

Seven well-known Bellingham businessmen, including Mayor John Westford, had an interest in the venture and were board members of the Hydro-Foil Operating and Development Company.

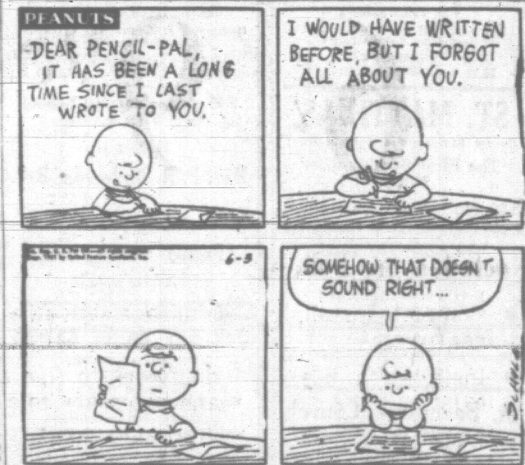

At high speeds the craft lifted clear of the water on metal "wings" which acted in the water in the same fashion as an aircraft wing in the air.

NATION-WIDE study of traffic congestion in major Canadian cities was urged today by H. T. Newell of Saint John, N.B., following his election as president of the 600,000-member Canadian Automobile Association. "This fast-growing problem calls for an intensive engineering survey," Mr. Newell said. The CAA wound up its annual meeting at the Empress Hotel with an executive committee meeting to prepare business for the coming year. The CAA will hold its 1961 meeting in Quebec City.

CANADIAN SCOTTISH HONOR DEAD

D-Day Landings Marked

By AB KENT

Memory of the many men lost by the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) in D-Day landings 17 years ago will be marked when the unit conducts a sunset and retreat ceremony at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Commanding officer Lieut.-Col. Peter Ramsay will lay a wreath on the Cenotaph at 8.30, on behalf of all ranks of the famous infantry unit.

As part of the 7th Brigade, the Canadian Scottish, Regina Rifles and Winnipeg Rifles went ashore as assault forces, Brits on their left, Americans on their right.

The first to hit the beach that June 6 were the men of "C" Company, commanded by Maj. Desmond Crofton; popular Salt Spring Islander, whose first target was Juno Beach, then the enemy position at Vaux, which they took.

The Scottish made their objective the next day, too—cutting the Caen-Bayeux railway.

On the third day they were hit by armor of the 12th SS Panzer Division, which smashed the Winnipeg Rifles, leaving the Scottish the only unit between the Hitler Youth unit and the sea.

Ordered to counter-attack, the Canadian Scottish, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Fred Cabellu, had only 3-inch mortars and anti-tank guns to face the crack German unit's heavy armor, but in four hours the infantrymen had regaled Putot.

Of 110 men, three officers and 26 other ranks remained.

In this action, the battalion lost nearly one-third of its strength, with 45 dead, 80 wounded.

Lieut.-Col. (later Brigadier) Cabellu was awarded the DSO.

Ganges Ratepayers Divide On Establishing Marina

GANGES — Residents voted 21-17 this week in favor of an application by garage owner Arthur Young for a harbor foreshore lease for establishment of a marina.

The lively meeting was called by Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce at the request of the Provincial Lands Department. The vote was restricted to ratepayers and is not binding, but will be used by the department.

Mr. Young showed a plan of the marina, to be built on a fill to extend 500 feet beyond his present lease at the rear of his garage.

He said it would bring an estimated expenditure of $100,000 to the area, and would mean a payroll of $18,000 or more annually. It also would protect the adjacent beach from prevailing winds, he said, and would make an excellent potential area for bathing and other water sports.

He can finance the project without difficulty, he said. When he invited objections, Captain V. C. Best claimed the idea was impractical, would be useless at low tide, would interfere with drainage in a nearby stream, and was not necessary because there are enough marinas on the island now.

W. T. D. Jones complained that the creek already had been diverted 25 feet in his direction, and that the marina would mean still more debris on his property.

Major Z. W. Kropinski questioned Mr. Young's ability to finance the project, saying the government had estimated $100,000 would not build a boat basin, and complained of the sewage problem.

Mr. Young replied that with no marina at Ganges, boats stopping at the government wharf leave shortly after because of lack of facilities. "A marina is bound to come in Ganges," he said, "and if it is not built by local effort it will be done by outsiders." C. R. Horel, chamber president, was chairman at the meeting.

Sentence Suspended In Suicide Attempt

COURTENAY — Arthur Eric Edlund, 60, found guilty Thursday of attempted suicide March 19, was given a 12-month suspended sentence by Magistrate John Ryland and placed on probation.

In passing sentence the magistrate remarked that in Great Britain criminal charges for similar offences will be abolished this month.

Edlund, a Cumberland resident, was involved in a traffic accident there in which an elderly resident was killed. He hanged himself in Cumberland police station 10 minutes after being jailed, but was revived by police.

Nanaimo Taxes Up 8.5 Per Cent

Korea Junta Chief Due to Step Down?

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A reliable civilian source said today that Lt. Gen. Do Yung Chang is to be replaced at the top of South Korea's new military junta.

The report said Chang would keep the premiership but would be succeeded as chairman of the powerful 32-man junta by the present vice-chairman—Maj. Gen. Chung Hi Park.

Park, 45, has generally been considered the chief engineer of the May 16 coup that brought down John Chang's elected government.

The report was denied by an information ministry aide, who called it a rumor "detrital to the revolutionary task of the military government."

SCURRAH HEADS CANADA MAYORS

An indication that Mayor Percy B. Scurrah will be candidate again in December for the chief magistracy post was contained today in a dispatch from Halifax.

Mayor Scurrah has been elected to, and accepted, the post of president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, the top honor for a municipal leader in Canada.

Mr. Scurrah has been mayor of Victoria since January, 1956, and there has been some talk at city hall he would retire when his present two-year term ends in December.

However, city hall observers today suggested if he had intended to retire he would not have accepted the federation post. They also pointed out that next year is the city's centenary which would mark a fitting climax to his career.

His election came at the final session of the federation's four-day conference in Halifax.

Mayor Scurrah succeeds Mayor S. L. Buckwold of Saskatoon who was named honorary president of the federation.

IN DOMINICAN UNREST

U.S. Navy Alert On East Coast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy and Marine units were on the alert along the eastern United States seaboard today amid reports of further disturbances in the Dominican Republic.

State department press officer Lincoln White said use of U.S. forces in the Caribbean country was not planned now. But he did not rule out the possibility of such action later if American lives were endangered.

According to latest reports reaching officials in Washington, the 5,200 Americans in the island still were unharmed.

The aircraft carrier Shangri-La put out to sea at Jacksonville, Fla., under a "general alert" condition. Its decks were jammed with jet fighters.

A navy spokesman said it was ordered to sea "to be ready in the event of an emergency." The United States Friday asked the Organization of American States to send a watchdog committee to the Caribbean country in an effort to stop extreme repressive action.

ONE MISSING

Three Jump To Flee Train

KAMLOOPS (CP) — One man is missing and two others were rescued from the swirling Thompson River early today when all three jumped from a bridge to escape an approaching train.

Police said the incident happened shortly before 6 a.m. as the trio was using the railway trestle bridge as a short cut.

The CNR train, approaching from a junction four miles north of the city, apparently panicked the men and they jumped into the Thompson, now at a high spring level.

Two of the men were helped to shore by police, the third vanished. Names were not released.

Sherluck Wins Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK (AP) — Sherluck won the Belmont Stakes today ruining Carry Back's hopes of sweeping racing's triple crown. Globemaster was second and Guadacanal was third in the 1½-mile race in which Carry Back, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, was the odds-on favorite.

The time was 2:29 1/5.

The odds board showed Sherluck at 60-1 when the race went off. Carry Back was seventh in the nine-horse field.

Sherluck paid $132.10 to win, $50.20 to place and $18.00 to show. Globemaster paid $15.30 and $9.00 and Guadacanal $7.90.

Sherluck won by 2¼ lengths and Globemaster was another 2½ lengths ahead of Guadacanal, who had a four-length edge on Amblopoise, the fourth horse.

Carry Back never was in the contention. He was expected to make his move in the back stretch or in the stretch but he never did. Globemaster led most of the way but Sherluck came on strong and won handsly.

Jockey Braulio Baeza was up on the long-shot winner, owned by Jacob Sher of Miami who received the trophy in the winner's circle from Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

A crowd of 51,586 watched the race in a light rain over a fast track. The winner earned $104,900.

Carry Back wound up 15 lengths behind Sherluck.

SIX-HOUR SESSION

Friendly Air as Ks Open Talks

VIENNA (Reuters) — President Kennedy and Nikita Khrushchev today discussed at length the problems of Laos and the International Control Commission in Laos, it was officially announced tonight.

Mr. Kennedy's Press Secretary Pierce Salinger said that the problems of banning nuclear weapons tests, disarmament and the German question would be considered Sunday.

The U.S. Spokesman said there was a "lengthy and specific discussion of Laos and the international control commission there."

Chief Soviet Spokesman Mikhail Khramov, after Salinger finished, said he hoped Sunday's talks in the Soviet Embassy would be as fruitful as today's.

(CP From AP-Reuters)

VIENNA — President Kennedy met for more than six hours with Soviet Premier Khrushchev here today in what conference officials described as a "good" atmosphere.

The talks lasted nearly an hour longer than originally scheduled and everything indicated the two men had got along well in their history-making meeting.

One authoritative conference source said the atmosphere was good and another stressed the cordiality between Kennedy and Khrushchev.

The two leaders met early in the day, then had lunch together and another meeting after the meal. In this last meeting of the day they were alone except for their interpreters.

The liveliness of their discussion was evident from a glimpse of the two men when they stepped out into the garden of the U.S. Embassy residence, the site of their talks, for a brief breath of the cool Austrian air.

The two were talking with marked animation. Both were gesturing vigorously with their hands, and both the 66-year-old Soviet veteran of diplomatic wars and the 44-year-old newcomer to the battleground of cold war diplomacy seemed in deadly earnest.

Kennedy flew here from a visit to Paris, where three days of talks with President Charles de Gaulle appeared to have strengthened his hand for these critical discussions with the Kremlin leader.

The first meeting of the U.S. and Soviet leaders was at the home of U.S. Ambassador H. Freeman Matthews in the Vienna outskirts.

Khrushchev arrived Kennedy's boudoir down the steps of the residence, thrust out his hand and said: "It's nice to see you."

The president introduced U.S. ambassador to Moscow Llewellyn Thompson to the Russian leader as "our ambassador."

Khrushchev smiled and replied: "He is our ambassador too."

COLORADO CITY LASHED BY 6 INCHES OF HAIL

LAMAR, Colo. (AP) — Dazed by hail and flooded by rain, this southeast Colorado city of 7,300 counted up hundreds of thousands of dollars damage today after a storm described as the worst in 50 years.

Six inches of hail and more than 2½ inches of rain fell late Friday in a period of less than two hours.

The storm destroyed hundreds of acres of wheat and sugar beets and left water 18 inches deep swirling down the main streets.

Hailstones up to four inches in diameter battered the city for 45 minutes.

DOUBLE K TALKS

Russian leader's customary guests returned when Kennedy asked if it was all right if they shook hands again for photographers.

Khrushchev thrust out his hand with a big flourish to the president.

Their initial discussions lasted 75 minutes, delaying the start of their lunch together for a half hour.

They continued their talks over lunch and then retired to the music room again for more discussions.

Top advisers, including State Secretary Dean Rusk and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, waited in adjoining rooms for any summons from their leaders.

Kennedy had flown into Vienna two hours earlier from Paris. He told Austrian President Adolf Schuster he had come to Vienna for "this most important occasion in an effort to improve the prospects for more general understanding between people."

The president received a more warm-hearted welcome from crowds lining his route into the city from the airport than the one accorded Khrushchev when he arrived here by train Friday night.

Crowds stood four and five deep at some points along the route despite steady rain. They surged forward cheering as he drove by with the Austrian president and there were none of the 400s which marked Khrushchev's arrival.

Another crowd waited at the Austrian president's office and cheered as Kennedy and his wife arrived for a formal visit.

A big crowd—many of them from Vienna's American colony—set up a loud cheer when Kennedy and Jacqueline arrived.

The leaders of the world's two greatest powers will hold talks again Sunday with no set agenda.

Each brings with him to this confrontation the command of nuclear weapons powerful enough to blot out the country of the other and much else of the world besides.

Each heads a rival alliance system—massive, formidable and determined to maintain its own way of life.

Diplomats predicted there would be some accomplishments. Whatever else develops, the two men should understand each other's motives better. This, in turn, should enable them more easily to avoid the political miscalculations that could lead to war.

Kennedy had his strategy fully mapped out for the five hours of talks with the Russian leader.

MORE TROOPS SENT

Creston Flood Menace Grows

CRESTON, B.C. (CP) — A 50,000-acre area of reclaimed farmland south of here is threatened by the rising waters of the swollen Kootenay River.

The level Friday was eight inches from the top of the lower dike protecting the area which lies between the south end of Kootenay Lake and the United States border, 500 miles east of Vancouver. This village, on high ground, is out of danger.

Meanwhile it was announced from the army's Western Command at Headquarters at Edmonton that a contingent of 40 troops had been sent to the threatened area at the request of B.C. Attorney-General Bonner.

About a half-dozen families live in the area, but the rich farmland already is fertilized and seeded and flooding would cause millions of dollars damage.

The area is caught in a squeeze as the river rises through a record runoff caused by the current hot spell while Kootenay Lake, into which it flows, also is rising at a rate of six inches a day, thus slowing down the river flow.

(Water rights comptroller Arthur Paget said in Victoria Friday the first flood crest May 30 at Creston was higher than previous records. There is no way of telling how high the coming crest will be, although it will certainly be higher, he said.)

(Mr. Paget said a survey of snowfields feeding the Kootenay showed the present spell could bring higher runoff rate than that which caused flooding in the area in 1948.)

Local officials fear a two-fold danger is building up. Secretary Guy Constable of the Creston dike district said Friday the pressure could cause breaches in the dikes even if the crest passes without overflowing them. He said the 1948 flooding occurred without the river reaching the top of the dikes.

The task of shoring up the earthwork will have to be done mainly by hand because experts feel it would be dangerous to use heavy machinery near the dikes.

"A high water level of long duration will be very serious," Mr. Constable said.

Gaming Raid Yielded $20,500

TORONTO (CP) — The head of the Ontario provincial police anti-gambling squad testified Friday police seized $20,500 when they raided Vincent Feeley's apartment last September.

Sergeant John Anderson was the last prosecution witness before the weekend adjournment of the bribery trial of Feeley, Joseph McDermott and former OPP Constable Robert Wright.

The three men are charged with conspiracy to bribe Const. George Scott.

Sgt. Anderson testified he was listening on an extension phone when Const. Scott tipped off McDermott about an impending gambling raid.

Const. Scott had testified he was acting as a double agent, giving information to gamblers while gathering evidence for the OPP.

Sgt. Anderson said he heard Const. Scott tell McDermott the anti-gambling squad was "going down south" May 25, which was an agreed code meaning there would be a raid on the Niagara Falls Ramsay Club.

It's Great In Great Outdoors

If fishermen, golfers, tennis players, and gardeners had created the weekend weather they couldn't have improved on the menu provided by weatherman William Mackie.

"This evening and Sunday will be mostly sunny," he said. "Temperatures are a little cooler, but we'll have a maximum of 75 degrees Sunday, and westerly winds up to 20 miles Sunday afternoon."

Grad-Night Crash Kills Two Youths

AGASSIZ (CP) — A car carrying six high school students to a graduation dance crashed into a power pole Friday night killing two boys and critically injuring a third.

Dead are Alan McCallum, 16, Harrison Mills, and Dick Mellin, 15, Agassiz. Unconscious and in serious condition is Garrett Whorly, 18, of Agassiz.

National Education Plan Asked by Mayor

HALIFAX (CP) — A Canadian mayor said Friday the Canadian system of elementary and secondary education is needlessly complicated in administration and suggested the federal government encourage a national program.

John E. Lloyd of Halifax, in an address on education costs to the 24th annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said the school system was financed on the erroneous assumption that property assessments are a fair and equitable measure of the ability of each municipality to pay for education.

He suggested the federal government should provide conditional grants from its tax resources to encourage a national program.

Federal grants should be conditional on the acceptance by each province of a national standard in the form of administration and financing, he said.

BURNABY MAN SPEAKS

Reeve A. H. Emmott of Burnaby, B.C., told delegates the Union of British Columbia Municipalities had suggested the B.C. government accept 100 per cent of all operating costs, leaving the matter of capital costs to be shared on a half and half basis.

Mr. Emmott said that although discussions along these lines had been going on for some time, there was no indication from the government that it plans to alter the present system.

At present a B.C. property owner must contribute towards the cost of education by a basic levy of 15½ mills plus the local share of debt charges incurred through the construction of new school buildings and other non-sharable costs, which produces a provincial mill rate ranging between 19½ and 22 mills.

"If we were successful in the endeavor to have the province take over education costs, local taxation would be reduced to 2.68 mills, which would make it possible to either reduce markedly the incidence of local taxation or to increase services proportionately to our citizens," Mr. Emmott said.

Mayor S. L. Buckwold of Saskatoon said education costs were the biggest burden on municipal governments. He said the provincial governments keep increasing grants for education but these grants do not keep up to the cost of new school in growing urban areas.

Mayor Harry Hays of Calgary said a lot of the trouble lay in the administration. "The people on the school boards who are handling large sums of money are people who ran for city councils and couldn't make it," he said.

URBAN FACILITY BRIEF MISREAD, SAYS ALSBURY

HALIFAX (CP) — Mayor A. T. Alsbury of Vancouver charged Friday Works Minister Walker with a "serious misunderstanding" in his interpretation of a brief submitted to the federal government by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Mr. Alsbury, speaking to a seminar at the federation's annual meeting, said Mr. Walker had stated that in the federation brief dealing with improvement and renewal of urban facilities "there was an insistent assumption that the federal government could rightfully be expected to bear the major share of these undertakings."

Mayor Alsbury said the federal government has been asked to share with provinces and municipalities and not to "bear the major share of the cost."

Parliamentary Fists Fly

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's Diet (parliament) was thrown into bedlam today as the ruling Liberal Democrats steam-rolled over Socialist opposition to push through a controversial bill aimed at wiping out political terrorism. Fists broke out on the floor.

Outside, more than 30,000 left-wing demonstrators marched past the present petitions opposing the bill, which they claim infringes constitutional freedoms.

About 4,000 members of the radical college student association, Zengakuren, clashed with helmeted police. Three policemen were injured by flying rocks. At least four students were arrested.

The lower house saw the most violent fist fights in its history.

Protesting socialists exchanged blows with Liberal Democrats. Shirts and suits were torn, but no injuries were reported.

Cuba to Spend $21 Million Here

HAVANA (CP) — The Cuban government has earmarked more than $21,000,000 to purchase goods from Canada this year, it was learned here Friday.

Purchase in 1961 will be the largest on record from the standpoint of Canadian sales to Cuba if the $21,000,000 figure is reached.

Canada's exports to Cuba then were $13,079,000.

The revolutionary government has budgeted a total of $21,633,000 for Canadian imports this year. However, this is still only a tentative estimate. The budget does give an idea, however, of how much Cuba's foreign trade ministry thinks it can buy in Canada.

Heavy purchases of Canadian livestock and poultry—Cuba is striving to build up its resources in both—made up a large part of the early imports.

Pigs, cattle, turkeys and chickens called food raw materials by the Cuban ministry make up the largest single item on the tentative budget—$1,566,623.

for 1961. Just over $6,000,000 has been earmarked for the livestock and poultry, needed for breeding purposes and to improve farm output.

Industrial raw materials are second on the list, with $4,860,000 set aside. Other large items are electrical parts and wiring, $2,872,623, and food,
